FDR Statue Is Smeared

London, March 22 (AP)—"Traitor of Yalta" was scrawled in red paint across the base of a statue of President Roosevelt in London's Grosvenor Square early today.

The defacement was believed the work of an Englishman angered by the disclosure in the Yalta conference papers released in Washington last week that Roosevelt suggested handing over Hong Kong to China.

The towering bronze statue in a small park opposite the U. S. Embassy was erected out of funds contributed by thousands of Britons. It was unveiled by Mrs. Roosevelt March 12, 1948.

Ministry of Works officials sent out a gang of men to scrub off the paint.

President Is Opposed To Parley

Would Not Meet With Soviets Now

Washington, March 22 (AP)—Republican congressional leaders said today President Eisenhower is opposed to a top level conference of the western powers with Russia at this time.

AFTER THE REGULAR weekly meeting of GOP leaders with the President, Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) told newsmen that Eisenhower still feels:

1. There must be some specific evidence of Soviet good faith before he would be willing to meet with Russia's Premier Bulganin.

2. Such a conference should not take place in any event until after the Paris agreements have been ratified. The agreements provide for arming West Germany.

Knowland, the Senate GOP floor leader, and House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) reported the President is opposed on these grounds to the proposal by Sen. George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, for a top level conference of the major powers as soon as possible.

KNOWLAND SAID the George proposal was discussed at the President's session with the GOP leaders.

Eisenhower has made it clear repeatedly, Knowland added, that he feels there should be no meeting of the heads of state of the major powers until the Soviet government shows "by deeds rather than words" that it is sincere about trying to ease international tensions.

Knowland recalled that Eisenhower has said several times that the Soviet government could demonstrate good faith by such steps as agreement on an Austrian Peace Treaty, unification of Germany, and unification of Korea.

So far, Knowland added, "there has been no indication on the part of the Soviet government" of any willingness to take such steps.

Knowland said he wanted to make it clear that the President

Blast Cloud Goes Over Las Vegas

AEC Says Fallout Is Not Present

Las Vegas, Nev., March 22 (AP)—For the first time since the government began testing atomic weapons in Nevada the cloud from a nuclear blast passed over this resort community of 50,000 today.

There was no alarm as the flattened-out, fleecy-white mushroom top drifted overhead at an estimated height of 30,000 feet. Atomic Energy Commission spokesmen here said there was no radiation fallout.

The cloud, expected to pass Las Vegas to the north, veered south about 6:30 a. m. and passed directly overhead, taking about 20 minutes to cross the city. It then floated on toward Henderson and Boulder City, Nev., and Kingman, Ariz.

The junior grade shot—sixth of the spring test series—was detonated from a 500-foot tower at 5:05 a. m. Two thousand marines practiced war game maneuvers in connection with the shot.

The AEC has been conducting tests on the desert northwest of here since 1951. Although many clouds have come close to Las Vegas, none before have passed directly above.

Extensive weather observations are made before each test in attempts to insure that the blasts will not cause fallout of radioactive dust in inhabited areas.

The stem, or lower portion of today's cloud, passed west and south of the city about 7:30 a. m.

Ferry Service Will Resume

Resumption of the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry schedule is tentatively scheduled for Thursday based on developments today.

The boat was due out of drydock today and for U. S. Coast Guard inspection tomorrow. If it passes inspection, it is expected to start its first trip from here at 9 a. m. Thursday.

Operating on a 40-minute round-trip schedule it leaves here daily at 9 a. m., making the last trip back from Rhinecliff at 7 p. m., and arriving here at 7:20 p. m.

Annual repairs were made at the C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., South Rondout.

Senator Describes Cruise on Nautilus

Gore Declares Trip Was Inspiring Experience; Tells of Reactions to Atom-Powered Sailing

(Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) was one of 12 members of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy who made an all-night cruise Sunday night aboard the Nautilus, the world's first atomic-powered submarine. He describes his impressions in the following account written for The Associated Press.)

By SEN. ALBERT GORE

Washington, March 22 (AP)—How deep the Nautilus can dive is a secret. But there is no secret that I had nervous twinges as she plunged downward in excess of 300 feet.

How fast she will race through the dark, briny depths is also a secret. But it was the thrill of a lifetime to break all previous records in this respect as the midnight hour approached.

The fright, which I frankly admit, and the exhilaration, which I shall not forget, were only aspects of an enlightening, enjoyable, and inspiring experience.

The food that we ate was cooked by atomic power. The water that we drank was distilled from ocean water by atomic energy. The submarine was not only driven but lighted, heated, and air-conditioned by atomic energy. In fact, all power for all purposes was exclusively nuclear in origin.

Though I have been involved in atomic legislation for more than 10 years, this was my initiation into the atomic age.

THE FIRST FEW HOURS out were calm and uneventful. It must necessarily be so until we reached really deep water. If the captain had taken his nervous passengers into a precipitous plunge without some hours of conditioning, I'm not sure that all the pounding hearts would have survived. Though none of my colleagues would admit to being scared, they had a certain nervous look about them that made me think they felt about like I did.

We boarded the submarine about 2 p. m at New London, Conn., and almost immediately the Nautilus started down the Thames river. We wrapped ourselves in navy jackets to stay on deck until we reached open waters. The nippy New England weather, plus the lateness of the hour, gave up ravenous appetites for the luncheon of sandwiches and coffee.

AFTER LUNCH, the committee broke up into parties of two or three to inspect the vessel. Each of us carefully placed upon the lapel of his coat the instruments to test radioactivity that had been given upon boarding the Nautilus.

Upon entering the reactor room, I noticed Sen. Pastore (D-R.I.) taking a quick glance at his. Of course, I am sure it was entirely out of curiosity. I looked at mine, too, even though I had previously sneaked a glance. The gauge ranged from zero to 300. At no time did my gauge register more than two points. Sen, Anderson's (D.-N.M.) gauge registered highest after the tour, standing at 10 points. One may easily absorb 200 points on a warm sunshiny day.

THE ATOMIC REACTOR was, of course, the center of interest. We were mere inches from lethal, deathly radioactivity. Yet, we could harmlessly place our hands upon this still, warm, but quiet source of enormous power.

I could feel its thrust upon the submarine's propeller, as if thousands and thousands of horses were racing and surging in unison.

After the reactor, we visited other compartments. The living quarters of the crew are better, we were told, than on any other submarine. We saw the tower, the control room, the torpedo compartment. Here, in turn, our parties stayed during a submergence and mock firing and loading of the torpedo tubes.

After about 2½ hours of thorough and detailed inspection, we returned to the central compartment to exchange views, josh each other about our nervousness, and ask more questions of Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, who is entitled to more credit than any other person for the Nautilus.

AFTER A BIT, each senator and congressman went to his separate "stateroom" for a little rest and preparation for dinner. In these quarters, each inch of space is utilized.

The ranking naval officers took their turns in presiding over three sittings at the dinner table where were served deli-

Keating Is Held Guilty Of Charge

Goldstein Imposes 5-Day Sentence

New York, March 22 (AP)—General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Golstein today found William J. Keating guilty of contempt in a wiretapping investigation and sentenced him to five days in prison.

Keating, counsel to the New York City Anti-Crime Committee, had refused to tell a grand jury where he obtained information about a raid on an illegal telephone tap.

THE COURT STAYED execution of the sentence until Friday to permit Keating's counsel, James D. C. Murray, to file an appeal with the Appellate Division.

Keating, in appearances before the New York county grand jury on March 4 and 7, refused to identify his informants or sources of information about police raid which took place Feb. 11 in an apartment at 360 E. 55th street.

The district attorney's office claimed Keating's published report of the raid differed widely from information obtained from other witnesses before the grand jury.

The committee that Keating works for is a non-official citizens' organization.

IN ANNOUNCING his decision, Judge Goldstein said:

"The issue before me is a

Heavy Rain Is Reported Over Area

Wreckage Burns For Three Hours

Honolulu, March 22 (AP)—A U. S. Navy transport plane with 66 abroad crashed into a Hawaii mountain early today and the navy announced there were no survivors.

The huge plane crashed and exploded into flames inside the Lualualei naval ammunition depot on the west coast of Oahu 29 miles from Honolulu.

AT THE TIME of the crash there was a low overcast and it was raining heavily.

AP Correspondent Roy Essoyan said from the naval depot that the plane crashed about halfway up the side of the mountain.

Essoyan said the wreckage still was glowing about three hours after the crash, which came at 2 a. m. (7 a. m. EST.).

The plane carried 57 passengers and a crew of 9, the navy reported.

THE BIG TRANSPORT took off from Hickam Field here late yesterday and was four hours and 26 minutes eastbound when it turned back, the navy said.

The navy in San Francisco said the plane turned back on a flight to the mainland because of radio trouble.

The transport, a four-engine RD6, was loaded to capacity. All aboard were military personnel and dependents except for two civilians.

IT WAS BOUND for Travis Air Force Base, 50 miles northeast of San Francisco.

William Joest, a resident of the area, said he heard the plane pass over his house "too low for comfort." Then came the crash.

Police officer Philo Owen, five miles from the scene, described the crash as "one big explosion like a thunderclap." He reported the whole sky was red for more than two hours.

A NAVY SPOKESMAN said the aircraft "is burning and rescue teams are at the scene. We have had no word of survivors. Ambulances are as close to the scene as they can get."

Cmdr. J. Smith of the Hawaiian sea frontier said the plane was an RD6 from the Moffet Naval Air Station near San Jose, Calif.

Smith said the plane hit a ridge line about 2,000 feet southeast of the main gate of the Laulaulei Naval Ammunition depot. The depot is about 30 to 40 miles from Honolulu.

SMITH SAID he did not know whether there were any women or children aboard. MATS planes frequently carry dependents of military personnel.

A navy spokesman said the plane crashed about 2 a. m.

Smith said a passenger list was being compiled and would

Governor Harriman Dared To Veto Education Measure

Albany, March 22 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck today dared Gov. Harriman to veto a Republican bill offering a compromise in the battle over state aid to education.

GOP leaders of the Legislature last night proposed to give Harriman roughly half of the four-million-dollar package he had been demanding for aid to instruction of foreign-born and handicapped pupils.

THE DEMOCRATIC governor at once denounced the plan as "utterly inadequate." The Republicans were undaunted.

"We're going to pass the whole darn thing," Heck told a reporter. "If he doesn't like it, let him veto it all."

The Republican proposal, made by Heck and Walter J. Mahoney, majority leader of the Senate, calls for granting two million dollars for statewide aid to the special classes.

Harriman repeatedly has called for appropriating $3,500,000 for education of foreign born youngsters in New York city and $500,000 additional for teaching mentally and physically handicapped children there.

BUT IT WAS REPORTED today that the administration was considering a compromise of its own that would allot some of the money sought to classes in upstate school districts.

The running fight over school aid could prolong the Legislative session beyond the present target for adjournment, April 5. Even as the battle broke out again, GOP leaders announced the lawmakers would work through Friday this week—for the first time this year.

The Republican school aid proposal would peg school aid rates at present levels for another year. But it would require that any change in the formula take effect only at the rate of one-fifth a year for the five years following the change.

HARRIMAN OBJECTS to the "taper-off" proposal, although he has called for a one-year freeze on state aid rates.

The Heck-Mahoney plan also would:

1. Increase the number of

Application Is Made for Project

Application has been made to the local Department of Buildings by Kingston Park, Inc., for permits to build the first two homes on the former Brinnier property in what has been described as the best projected development in the city.

Mapped for the development are 71 lots, most of them 70 by 90 feet in the area bordering Kiersted avenue and Wrentham street.

This is the largest proposed housing development revealed here, to date. Similar projects have been indicated by Krovan Homes Inc., for a 42-lot development off the end of Main street, and another near it of about 20 lots by the Crosby & Kingston Building Sales, and another smaller development off Pearl street.

THE NEW YORK corporation has applied to construct one Cape Cod and one split-level type house as a beginning of the project on the former Brinnier property. The local planning board is expected to take final action on the corporation's application at a meeting tonight.

Most of the property, to be developed, is in the city limits. The price range of the homes is to be from $15,000 to $18,000, and the development is to be U-shaped, with a street leading off Kiersted avenue and swinging back to connect with the street again.

Some of the lots, because of the involvement of easements for three city water mains and a sewer line leading from the Roosevelt Park area, are larger than the regular 70 by 90 type.

Proximity of the water lines and sewer, however, is more of a benefit than an aid to the de-

Kingston Safe, Council Reports

New York, March 21 (Special)—A comparison of auto accident data, gathered by the National Safety Council from 513 cities in the United States, shows that Kingston is a relatively safe place for motorist and pedestrian.

Fewer fatal accidents occurred locally in 1954, in proportion to the size of the city, than in most communities. The one death from auto accidents in Kingston represents a rate of 3.5 fatalities per 100,000 population.

THIS COMPARES favorably with the national returns of 22.5

Teenagers Saved From Large Cave

New York, March 22 (AP)—A teen-age boy and two girls were rescued by police early today from a large cave under the Henry Hudson Parkway where they said they had been trapped since Saturday.

Police said the youngsters claimed they had been unable to leave the cave because the entrance suddenly narrowed after they crawled inside. However, police added, friends who took the trio food had not been asked to get help to free them.

The three were identified as Ronald Tevlin, 15, Jacqueline Weber, 13, and her sister, Joele, 16.

THEY WERE LOCATED by police after the girls' father reported them missing yesterday. A neighborhood youngster showed the way to the cave, located in upper Manhattan.

The cave, a well-known hideout for children of the area,

Laws Called Best Comic Book Control; Use of Jelke Testimony Called Disgusting

Albany, March 22 (AP)—A legislative committee says stricter laws—not self-policing—is the best way to take sex and brutality out of comic books.

In its annual report to the governor and Legislature, the Joint Legislative Committee studying publication of comics asserted last night that sex and horror literature continued to flood the newsstands.

The committee said objectionable material still was to be found in comics bearing the seal of the Comic Magazine Publishers Assn., Inc., which has been administering its own clean-up code.

Self-policing, the legislators contended, "has yet to prove effective."

The committee recommended a sweeping law to prohibit publication and sale of lurid comics. It said such a law would provide a weapon far more effective than self-policing.

The industry's "czar," Charles F. Murphy, commenting in New York city on the report, said he welcomed criticism as an aid in his work. He said his office was laboring "night and day to attain its objectives."

The legislative committee also has been studying pocket-sized books, magazines, radio and television. It reported.

"Purveyors of filth in print continue to flood the newsstands of the state with 'pocket books,' 'girlie magazines,' picture magazines and similar publications devoted to the exploitation of illicit sex."

Terror, brutality and sex still are featured in radio and television programs, the committee said. It urged parents to step up supervision of their children's viewing and listening habits.

The committee reported also that filthy photographs and motion pictures were being peddled to minors "in steadily increasing quantities." To help curb this, the lawmakers proposed broadening of federal legislation prohibiting interstate shipment of obscene materials.

Baby Girl's Body Found in Station At Poughkeepsie

The body of a baby girl was found in a water cooling system in the ladies' room at the Poughkepsie railroad station this morning.

Poughkeepsie police were notified at 8:11 a. m. by Leonard Bluto, ticket agent that the discovery had been made by John Beverland, a station employe.

Police estimated the infant had been dead about 40 hours. The body was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where an autopsy was being performed this afternoon by Dr. A. W. Thompson, a Dutchess county medical examiner.

Police said the baby was fully formed and had apparently just been born.

A number of persons were being questioned by Poughkeepsie detectives today, but no one was held.

Governor Harriman Dared To Veto Education Measure

Albany, March 22 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck today dared Gov. Harriman to veto a Republican bill offering a compromise in the battle over state aid to education.

GOP leaders of the Legislature last night proposed to give Harriman roughly half of the four-million-dollar package he had been demanding for aid to instruction of foreign-born and handicapped pupils.

THE DEMOCRATIC governor at once denounced the plan as "utterly inadequate." The Republicans were undaunted.

"We're going to pass the whole darn thing," Heck told a reporter. "If he doesn't like it, let him veto it all."

The Republican proposal, made by Heck and Walter J. Mahoney, majority leader of the Senate, calls for granting two million dollars for statewide aid to the special classes.

Harriman repeatedly has called for appropriating $3,500,000 for education of foreign born youngsters in New York city and $500,000 additional for teaching mentally and physically handicapped children there.

BUT IT WAS REPORTED today that the administration was considering a compromise of its own that would allot some of the money sought to classes in upstate school districts.

The running fight over school aid could prolong the Legislative session beyond the present target for adjournment, April 5. Even as the battle broke out again, GOP leaders announced the lawmakers would work through Friday this week—for the first time this year.

The Republican school aid proposal would peg school aid rates at present levels for another year. But it would require that any change in the formula take effect only at the rate of one-fifth a year for the five years following the change.

HARRIMAN OBJECTS to the "taper-off" proposal, although he has called for a one-year freeze on state aid rates.

The Heck-Mahoney plan also would:

Application Is Made for Project

Application has been made to the local Department of Buildings by Kingston Park, Inc., for permits to build the first two homes on the former Brinnier property in what has been described as the best projected development in the city.

Mapped for the development are 71 lots, most of them 70 by 90 feet in the area bordering Kiersted avenue and Wrentham street.

This is the largest proposed housing development revealed here, to date. Similar projects have been indicated by Krovan Homes Inc., for a 42-lot development off the end of Main street, and another near it of about 20 lots by the Crosby & Kingston Building Sales, and another smaller development off Pearl street.

THE NEW YORK corporation has applied to construct one Cape Cod and one split-level type house as a beginning of the project on the former Brinnier property. The local planning board is expected to take final action on the corporation's application at a meeting tonight.

Most of the property, to be developed, is in the city limits. The price range of the homes is to be from $15,000 to $18,000, and the development is to be U-shaped, with a street leading off Kiersted avenue and swinging back to connect with the street again.

Some of the lots, because of the involvement of easements for three city water mains and a sewer line leading from the Roosevelt Park area, are larger than the regular 70 by 90 type.

Proximity of the water lines and sewer, however, is more of a benefit than an aid to the de-

Kingston Safe, Council Reports

New York, March 21 (Special)—A comparison of auto accident data, gathered by the National Safety Council from 513 cities in the United States, shows that Kingston is a relatively safe place for motorist and pedestrian.

Fewer fatal accidents occurred locally in 1954, in proportion to the size of the city, than in most communities. The one death from auto accidents in Kingston represents a rate of 3.5 fatalities per 100,000 population.

THIS COMPARES favorably with the national returns of 22.5

Teenagers Saved From Large Cave

New York, March 22 (AP)—A teen-age boy and two girls were rescued by police early today from a large cave under the Henry Hudson Parkway where they said they had been trapped since Saturday.

Police said the youngsters claimed they had been unable to leave the cave because the entrance suddenly narrowed after they crawled inside. However, police added, friends who took the trio food had not been asked to get help to free them.

The three were identified as Ronald Tevlin, 15, Jacqueline Weber, 13, and her sister, Joele, 16.

THEY WERE LOCATED by police after the girls' father reported them missing yesterday. A neighborhood youngster showed the way to the cave, located in upper Manhattan.

The cave, a well-known hideout for children of the area,

Laws Called Best Comic Book Control; Use of Jelke Testimony Called Disgusting

Albany, March 22 (AP)—A legislative committee says stricter laws—not self-policing—is the best way to take sex and brutality out of comic books.

In its annual report to the governor and Legislature, the Joint Legislative Committee studying publication of comics asserted last night that sex and horror literature continued to flood the newsstands.

The committee said objectionable material still was to be found in comics bearing the seal of the Comic Magazine Publishers Assn., Inc., which has been administering its own clean-up code.

Self-policing, the legislators contended, "has yet to prove effective."

The committee recommended a sweeping law to prohibit publication and sale of lurid comics. It said such a law would provide a weapon far more effective than self-policing.

The industry's "czar," Charles F. Murphy, commenting in New York city on the report, said he welcomed criticism as an aid in his work. He said his office was laboring "night and day to attain its objectives."

The legislative committee also has been studying pocket-sized books, magazines, radio and television. It reported.

"Purveyors of filth in print continue to flood the newsstands of the state with 'pocket books,' 'girlie magazines,' picture magazines and similar publications devoted to the exploitation of illicit sex."

Terror, brutality and sex still are featured in radio and television programs, the committee said. It urged parents to step up supervision of their children's viewing and listening habits.

The committee reported also that filthy photographs and motion pictures were being peddled to minors "in steadily increasing quantities." To help curb this, the lawmakers proposed broadening of federal legislation prohibiting interstate shipment of obscene materials.

Baby Girl's Body Found in Station At Poughkeepsie

The body of a baby girl was found in a water cooling system in the ladies' room at the Poughkepsie railroad station this morning.

Poughkeepsie police were notified at 8:11 a. m. by Leonard Bluto, ticket agent that the discovery had been made by John Beverland, a station employe.

Police estimated the infant had been dead about 40 hours. The body was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where an autopsy was being performed this afternoon by Dr. A. W. Thompson, a Dutchess county medical examiner.

Police said the baby was fully formed and had apparently just been born.

A number of persons were being questioned by Poughkeepsie detectives today, but no one was held.

Harriman Signs Special Measure

Albany, March 22 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today signed a bill giving special protection against creditors to insurance beneficiaries of volunteer firemen killed or injured in the line of duty.

Harriman said similar legislation was vetoed last year by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "without message or without stated reason."

The bill would prohibit creditors from attaching funds paid to beneficiaries from policies taken out by cities, towns or villages.

HARRIMAN SAID he had contacted various state departments and statewide organizations of firemen and municipal officials and had been advised they had no objection to the measure.

"In fact," he said, "there has been no objection from any source."

The governor signed also bills that:

Wiped from the books a centuries-old law requiring communities to maintain public baths for use by the general public.

Appropriated $724,046 to cover additional state spending for the fiscal year ending March 31.

A bill passed in the Senate last night would make it a misdemeanor to copy phonograph records, without authorization, for sale or profit. The bill, passed 56-1, was introduced by Sen. William Condon, Yonkers Republican.

24 Miners Killed

Spoleto, Italy, March 22 (AP)—A lignite coal mine blast killed 24 miners today and injured 16 others. Two quick blasts ripped through the central tunnel of the mine 650 feet underground at dawn today, crumbling a mine wall and crushing the workers. More than 100 other miners scurried to safety. The blasts, believed caused by an accumulation of fire damp, came just as there was a change in shift in the 24-hour a day operation. The mine is located at Morgano Di Spoleto, a hamlet near this city, about 65 miles northeast of Rome.

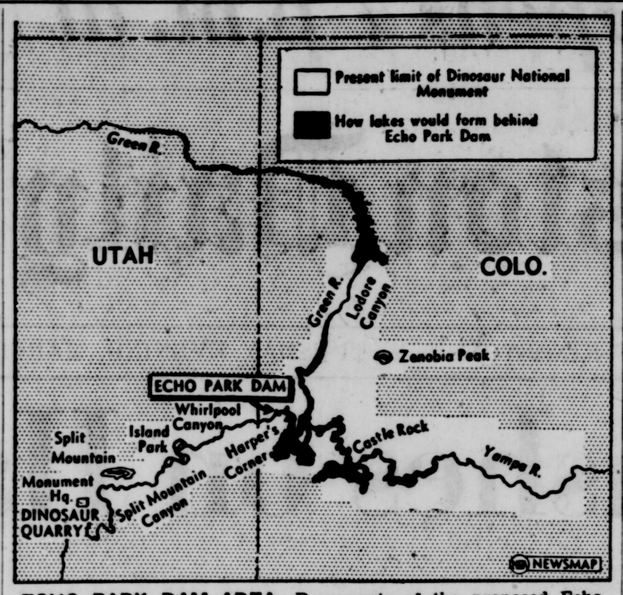
Rosendale

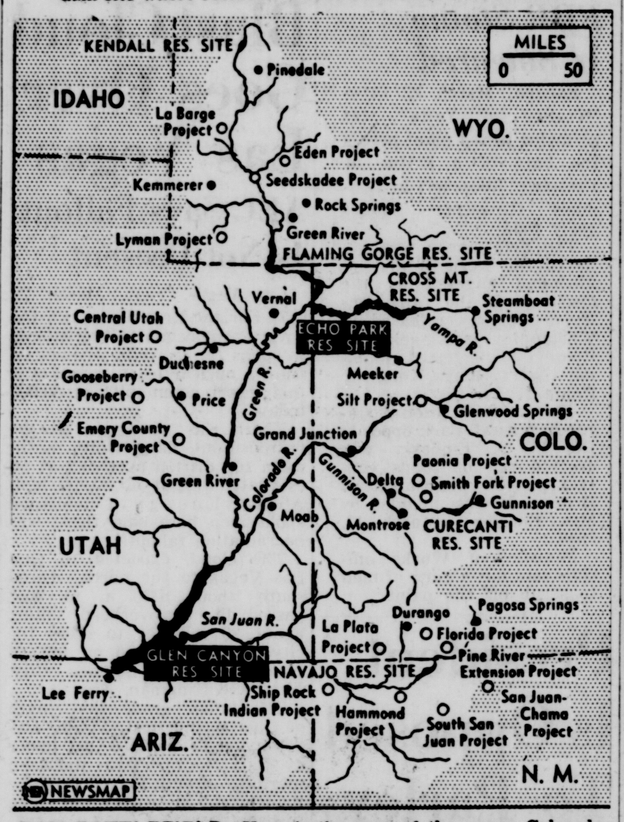
Supper Announced

Rosendale, March 22 — An Aunt Jemima pancake supper has been planned by Rosendale-Tillson Post, American Legion, to take place Saturday, at the Legion post headquarters. The supper will be from 5 p. m. until all are served. The public is invited to attend. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Gas found in salt mines was piped in bamboo tubes and used for illumination by the ancient Chinese.



ECHO PARK DAM AREA—Proponents of the proposed Echo Park water storage dam in Colorado say backing up the waters of the Green, Yampa and Colorado rivers would provide a beautiful lake that would transform a "No Man's Land" into a vacation background for millions, besides providing irrigation, flood control and hydroelectric power. Anti-dam folks say backed-up waters would ruin famous Dinosaur Mountain, famed for beds of dinosaur bones. Proponents point out that beds are far below the dam site where reservoir waters could never reach them.



DAM BATTLEFIELD—Here is the area of the upper Colorado River basin over which is being fought the "battle of the dams." One of the two proposed water storage dams involved is at Echo Park, Colo., three miles east of the Utah line. The other is at Glen Canyon, northern Arizona, 15 miles upstream from Lee Ferry. Eisenhower administration program for 1955 calls for an initial $5 million appropriation to begin work if Congress okays the projects. But anti-dam people are fighting hard to squelch the idea. Most opposition comes from downstream Colorado River water users of Arizona and California.

High Falls

High Falls, March 22 — The American Legion Auxiliary of Town of Marbletown Post 1512 served a baked ham supper Thursday evening to members, men of the Legion and some invited guests of Korean War Veterans. This was in honor of the birthday of the Legion. About 50 attended. Following the supper the regular business meeting took place. The president, Mrs. Mary Christiana, presided. The Auxiliary welcomed several new members: Mrs. William Bryant, Mrs. Lois Gross, Mrs. Marilyn Arra and one new junior member, Marilyn Montalvo.

The auxiliary now has six junior members. Plans for sending Easter cards to the Albany Hospital were discussed. Several members donated cards and others will be bought with money from the treasury. Any one else wishing to donate such cards may leave them at the home of Mrs. George Williams or Mrs. Robert Christiana in High Falls or Mrs. Frank Altieri in Stone Ridge.

These are new cards and are given to the veterans in the hospital to send to their families. The poppy poster contest is underway and the sale of poppies will take place in May. Money received from this sale enable the auxiliary to carry on their work in the Albany Veterans Hospital. At the next meeting, Mrs. Robert Lawson will present a Pan-American program. This is another one of the phases of auxiliary work. It is aimed at promoting better relations with neighbors to the south.

MOSCOW FIRING—Russian Minister of Culture Georgi F. Alexandrov, above, was fired (March 21) by Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The Moscow radio said Alexandrov was sacked on Bulganin's recommendation "because he failed to ensure the leadership of the ministry of culture." (AP Wirephoto)

Strong Winds Are Forecast

Syracuse, March 22 (AP)—Powerful winds thrust into New York state today, driving Oneida Lake ice through a shoreline tavern and ripping part of the roof off a Cortland plant.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Buffalo said there was a threat of severe thundersqualls and possibly isolated tornadoes in western New York.

But the Albany Weather Bureau said it believed the tornado threat had diminished.

HOWEVER, the winds were expected to grow stronger across most of the state with gales predicted for western and central portions.

The Golden Shell Tavern on Boysens Bay, 15 miles north of Syracuse on the south shore of Oneida Lake, was wrecked by huge blocks of ice driven off the lake by high winds from the east.

THE ICE WAS .14-inches thick. Some of its was piled 15 feet high and as far inland as 200 feet from the shore.

Louis Showens, owner of the tavern, said he had noticed no disturbance on the lake when he left the Quonset-type building at 2 a. m.

At Cortland, an 800 square foot section of the gabled roof of the Champion Sheet Metal Co., Inc., was lifted by the winds and dumped on another, lower building. A company official estimated that damage at $10,000.

In New York city, more than an inch of rain, driven by gusty winds, fell today, bringing the total since yesterday morning to 1.81 inches.

Bill Is Approved

Albany, March 22 (AP)—Motorists would be required to dim their headlights when overtaking another automobile under a bill that won final legislative approval in the Senate today. Present law requires a driver to dim his lights upon meeting a car coming from the opposite direction, but says nothing about overtaking. The bill, sponsored by Republican Assemblyman Leo Noonan of Cattaraugus county, would require that lights be dimmed when the overtaking car came within 250 feet of any other moving vehicle. The measure was passed unanimously and sent to Gov. Harriman. With his approval, it would take effect July 1.

To Hold Banquet

The annual banquet of the Ulster County Supervisors Association will be held at Villa Nueva at Plattekill on Thursday, Auril 21, at 7 p. m.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 22 (AP)—The Stock Market managed to make limited headway today in the early afternoon following a mixed start.

Prices for the most part were bounded by a range of fractions lower to around 2 points higher.

Trading was unusually slow with the pace well under yesterday's 2,020,000 shares. That total in turn is about 60 per cent of the Daily average so far this year.

Higher major groups included steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, and coppers. The distillers were somewhat lower. Other groups were steady to mixed.

velopment, because the storm sewer built during the WPA years, is easily accessible along with water line connections.

MOST OF THE LARGER housing developments planned for the area after it was announced that an IBM plant would be built in the town of Ulster, are outside the city. The one indicated through application of Kingston Park, Inc., is the largest planned, to date, within the city.

Information available locally at this time on the project, indicates that it will be on a better scale "than any planned at present." Some of the houses are to be brick, others of stucco construction and several will be in other modern building materials.

A. E. Milliken, of the Hurley road, is listed as architect for Kingston Park, Inc.

An application has also been made to the local building department for construction of the new home of County Judge John M. Cashin on Jefferson avenue. Harry Halverson, of this city, is listed as the architect.

Landing Craft Passes Tests

A landing craft built by Island Dock Inc., passed navy acceptance tests Monday and will be delivered to the Brooklyn Navy Yard Friday, but the scheduled launching of another was postponed because of weather conditions, the company announced today.

LCU 1471, launched Jan. 19, was tested yesterday, and LCU 1472, scheduled for launching Wednesday will be launched Friday at 3:30 p. m., because weather conditions prevented final painting of its hull.

Both are of the 120-foot type steel-hulled vessels that the local shipyard is building for the navy. The contract calls for 17 and the one to be launched Friday will be the 10th.

Harriman Signs Special Measure

Albany, March 22 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today signed a bill giving special protection against creditors to insurance beneficiaries of volunteer firemen killed or injured in the line of duty.

Harriman said similar legislation was vetoed last year by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "without message or without stated reason."

The bill would prohibit creditors from attaching funds paid to beneficiaries from policies taken out by cities, towns or villages.

HARRIMAN SAID he had contacted various state departments and statewide organizations of firemen and municipal officials and had been advised they had no objection to the measure.

"In fact," he said, "there has been no objection from any source."

The governor signed also bills that:

Wiped from the books a centuries-old law requiring communities to maintain public baths for use by the general public.

Appropriated $724,046 to cover additional state spending for the fiscal year ending March 31.

A bill passed in the Senate last night would make it a misdemeanor to copy phonograph records, without authorization, for sale or profit. The bill, passed 56-1, was introduced by Sen. William Condon, Yonkers Republican.

24 Miners Killed

Spoleto, Italy, March 22 (AP)—A lignite coal mine blast killed 24 miners today and injured 16 others. Two quick blasts ripped through the central tunnel of the mine 650 feet underground at dawn today, crumbling a mine wall and crushing the workers. More than 100 other miners scurried to safety. The blasts, believed caused by an accumulation of fire damp, came just as there was a change in shift in the 24-hour a day operation. The mine is located at Morgano Di Spoleto, a hamlet near this city, about 65 miles northeast of Rome.

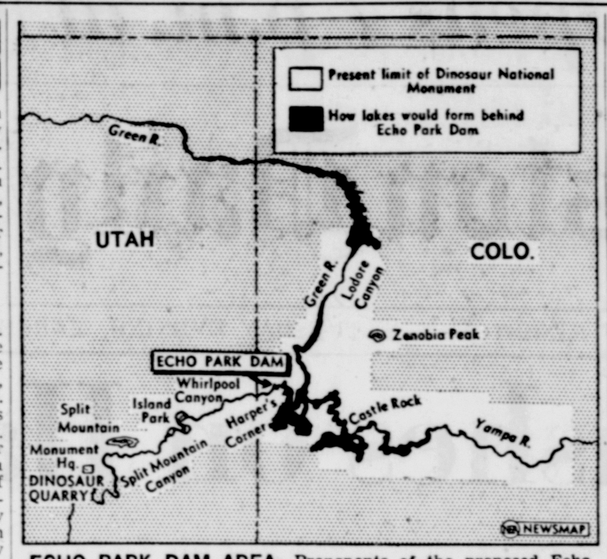
Rosendale

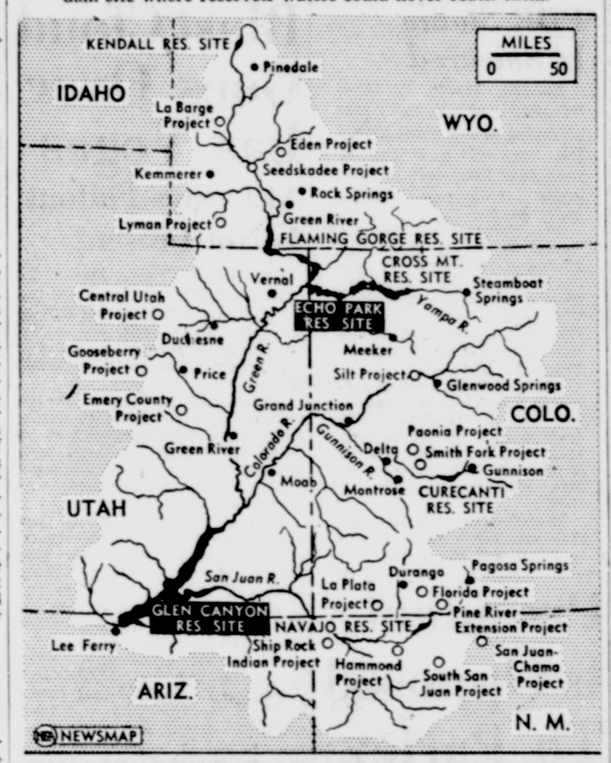
Supper Announced

Rosendale, March 22 — An Aunt Jemima pancake supper has been planned by Rosendale-Tillson Post, American Legion, to take place Saturday, at the Legion post headquarters. The supper will be from 5 p. m. until all are served. The public is invited to attend. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Gas found in salt mines was piped in bamboo tubes and used for illumination by the ancient Chinese.



ECHO PARK DAM AREA—Proponents of the proposed Echo Park water storage dam in Colorado say backing up the waters of the Green, Yampa and Colorado rivers would provide a beautiful lake that would transform a "No Man's Land" into a vacation background for millions, besides providing irrigation, flood control and hydroelectric power. Anti-dam folks say backed-up waters would ruin famous Dinosaur Mountain, famed for beds of dinosaur bones. Proponents point out that beds are far below the dam site where reservoir waters could never reach them.



DAM BATTLEFIELD—Here is the area of the upper Colorado River basin over which is being fought the "battle of the dams." One of the two proposed water storage dams involved is at Echo Park, Colo., three miles east of the Utah line. The other is at Glen Canyon, northern Arizona, 15 miles upstream from Lee Ferry. Eisenhower administration program for 1955 calls for an initial $5 million appropriation to begin work if Congress okays the projects. But anti-dam people are fighting hard to squelch the idea. Most opposition comes from downstream Colorado River water users of Arizona and California.

High Falls

High Falls, March 22 — The American Legion Auxiliary of Town of Marbletown Post 1512 served a baked ham supper Thursday evening to members, men of the Legion and some invited guests of Korean War Veterans. This was in honor of the birthday of the Legion. About 50 attended. Following the supper the regular business meeting took place. The president, Mrs. Mary Christiana, presided. The Auxiliary welcomed several new members: Mrs. William Bryant, Mrs. Lois Gross, Mrs. Marilyn Arra and one new junior member, Marilyn Montalvo.

The auxiliary now has six junior members. Plans for sending Easter cards to the Albany Hospital were discussed. Several members donated cards and others will be bought with money from the treasury. Any one else wishing to donate such cards may leave them at the home of Mrs. George Williams or Mrs. Robert Christiana in High Falls or Mrs. Frank Altieri in Stone Ridge.

These are new cards and are given to the veterans in the hospital to send to their families. The poppy poster contest is underway and the sale of poppies will take place in May. Money received from this sale enable the auxiliary to carry on their work in the Albany Veterans Hospital. At the next meeting, Mrs. Robert Lawson will present a Pan-American program. This is another one of the phases of auxiliary work. It is aimed at promoting better relations with neighbors to the south.

Strong Winds Are Forecast

Syracuse, March 22 (AP)—Powerful winds thrust into New York state today, driving Oneida Lake ice through a shoreline tavern and ripping part of the roof off a Cortland plant.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Buffalo said there was a threat of severe thunderstqualls and possibly isolated tornadoes in western New York.

But the Albany Weather Bureau said it believed the tornado threat had diminished.

HOWEVER, the winds were expected to grow stronger across most of the state with gales predicted for western and central portions.

The Golden Shell Tavern on Boysens Bay, 15 miles north of Syracuse on the south shore of Oneida Lake, was wrecked by huge blocks of ice driven off the lake by high winds from the east.

THE ICE WAS 14-inches thick. Some of its was piled 15 feet high and as far inland as 200 feet from the shore.

Louis Showens, owner of the tavern, said he had noticed no disturbance on the lake when he left the Quonset-type building at 2 a. m.

At Cortland, an 800 square foot section of the gabled roof of the Champion Sheet Metal Co., Inc., was lifted by the winds and dumped on another, lower building. A company official estimated that damage at $10,000.

In New York city, more than an inch of rain, driven by gusty winds, fell today, bringing the total since yesterday morning to 1.81 inches.

Bill Is Approved

Albany, March 22 (AP)—Motorists would be required to dim their headlights when overtaking another automobile under a bill that won final legislative approval in the Senate today. Present law requires a driver to dim his lights upon meeting a car coming from the opposite direction, but says nothing about overtaking. The bill, sponsored by Republican Assemblyman Leo Noonan of Cattaraugus county, would require that lights be dimmed when the overtaking car came within 250 feet of any other moving vehicle. The measure was passed unanimously and sent to Gov. Harriman. With his approval, it would take effect July 1.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 22 (AP)—The Stock Market managed to make limited headway today in the early afternoon following a mixed start.

Prices for the most part were bounded by a range of fractions lower to around 2 points higher.

Trading was unusually slow with the pace well under yesterday's 2,020,000 shares. That total in turn is about 60 per cent of the Daily average so far this year.

Higher major groups included steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, and coppers. The distillers were somewhat lower. Other groups were steady to mixed.

MOST OF THE LARGER housing developments planned for the area after it was announced that an IBM plant would be built in the town of Ulster, are outside the city. The one indicated through application of Kingston Park, Inc., is the largest planned, to date, within the city.

Information available locally at this time on the project, indicates that it will be on a better scale "than any planned at present." Some of the houses are to be brick, others of stucco construction and several will be in other modern building materials.

A. E. Milliken, of the Hurley road, is listed as architect for Kingston Park, Inc.

An application has also been made to the local building department for construction of the new home of County Judge John M. Cashin on Jefferson avenue. Harry Halverson, of this city, is listed as the architect.

Landing Craft Passes Tests

A landing craft built by Island Dock Inc., passed navy acceptance tests Monday and will be delivered to the Brooklyn Navy Yard Friday, but the scheduled launching of another was postponed because of weather conditions, the company announced today.

LCU 1471, launched Jan. 19, was tested yesterday, and LCU 1472, scheduled for launching Wednesday will be launched Friday at 3:30 p. m., because weather conditions prevented final painting of its hull.

Both are of the 120-foot type steel-hulled vessels that the local shipyard is building for the navy. The contract calls for 17 and the one to be launched Friday will be the 10th.

Men's Stores Have Great Hope Of Doing Big Spring Business

New York, March 22 (AP) — With spring officially here women all over the land are thinking about spring housecleaning. And from that it's usually only a slight mental jump for them to start wondering out loud if their husband couldn't stand a little sprucing up, too.

Men's stores applaud this notion. They have high hopes that the trend toward more elegant male attire, first spotted here and there last fall, will blossom with the spring flowers and perk up sales totals.

A HUSBAND'S reaction to his wife's campaign to upgrade his appearance often runs like this: After a man buys spring outfits for his wife and children, there's scarcely enough money left to meet the payments due on the house, the car, the TV set and the home freezer—let alone for a new suit for the debtor himself.

About all a man can be expected to do is to keep two paces to the rear of his family so as not to disgrace them in the Easter parade.

Merchants are aware that many other things besides a new suit compete for the married man's dollar. But the clothing industry thinks this a shame and is making a special promotional effort this spring to entice males into finer plumage.

GARMENT makers are playing up color, or the lack of it as in the charcoal tones. They're stressing that good clothes are necessary for success in business, for the better social life, and for matching the elegance of the new model cars.

One branch of the clothing industry holds that the best way to get men to buy new suits is to make wives dissatisfied with the way their husband looks. Many men, however, are already well aware of this dissatisfaction.

MERCHANTS say that about half the time wives come along when their man buys a suit. So, at least one clothing maker (H. Daroff & Sons of Philadelphia) has a company program under way to help clothing merchants tell women how to improve the appearance of husbands or sons. The fine points of style, workmanship, fabrics and colors are being outlined.

The National Assn. of Retail Clothiers and furnishers is also plugging hard this spring to awaken style consciousness in a male population tending in recent years more and more to the casual in dress.

JEANS ARE a case in point. Only those who wear them (a multitude) and those who make them seem to have a good word for the denim trousers that are now a fad with the younger set. Makers of conventional suits are trying hard this spring to get men to dress less informally.

And the Tailors-to-Trade Assn., whose members outfit the estimated eight per cent of the male population who now buy made-to-measure suits, has a drive under way to attack new customers in the 21 to 46 year old bracket having annual incomes of from $4,000 to $10,000. The tailors says this group can afford to look better than it does.

THE MEN'S tie foundations is trying hard to reverse a trend toward casual attire that discards the cravat. Hatters claim they see a return to covering the head even among college men, and this summer the industry will plug for charcoal colored straw hats.

The Jewelry Industry Council is cheering the outbreak of bright colored shirts which it says helps sell bright accessories —like pink elephant cuff links.

All this brightness will be fine for spring. But just wait until next fall. One textile house (Pacific Mills) is coming out with suitings in "stained glass" colors—black - red, black - green and black-blue.

Graham Harvests Many Souls in Scotland Revival

Glasgow, Scotland, March 22 (AP)—Billy Graham's all-Scotland religious crusade got off to a flying start last night. The harvest of souls from the 13,000 persons jamming four-acre Kelvin Hall was the greatest ever, the American evangelist said.

Hundreds responded to Graham's pleas to make "decisions for Christ" and filed off into a side room for a private word with the evangelist. No exact check could be made on the number, but Graham said he had never had such a reaction at an evangelical meeting.

ALMOST ALL the Protestant religious notables of Scotland appeared on the platform for the opening of Graham's six-week salvation drive. There was no sign of the dissentions which some had feared. And the reaction when he asked for "decisions" stilled the fears of some clergymen that traditionally reserved Scots would not respond to his type of evangelism.

In the consulting room, Graham stood with bowed head as the throng of penitents filed in. Most of them were women.

"It's not I who did it," he murmured into the microphones. "It's God at work. Don't give me the credit for it, because if you do you will spoil my ministry. The glory is God's."

Graham told his audience that through their souls they would live to be a million years old.

"You feed your body, brush your hair, put on makeup and wear clothes," he said, "and it's all for the body which dies like grass withers. But for the soul, which goes on and on, you do so little."

City services were mobilized to care for the crowd attending the service. Streetcars and buses waited for many blocks on all sides of Kelvin Hall. Officers with walkie-talkies directed police shepherding the worshippers to the doors.

New York (AP)—Ever hear of a pretty girl turning down a free mink coat?

Well, Jeanne Strouse did—and there were no strings attached to the offer.

Jeanne, who yearned during her schooldays to grow up and have sextuplets, is blue-eyed, has light brown hair, and is going on 22. She is an airline stewardess, typical of hundreds of American working girls who prefer life up among the fleecy clouds to a sedate office job.

ON A RECENT flight the passengers included a middle-aged couple. The wife had two mink coats, and both she and her husband seemed weary of lugging the extra one around. They asked Miss Strouse if, please, wouldn't she accept it as a present.

At first Jeanne thought they were joking, but they insisted. She thought it over, thanked them—and shook her head no. The husband was amazed by her refusal, but the wife absolutely dumfounded.

"Why" she asked. "Every girl wants a mink coat. I don't understand you."

"Well, if I have a mink coat now," Jeanne told her, "what would there be left for me to want 10 years from now?"

Jeanne has logged 1,000 hours in the air flying between here and Montreal for Colonial Airlines, which has operated nearly 25 years without a passenger fatality. She has found an airplane cabin a wonderful place to study human nature.

"PEOPLE SHOW their real personality while traveling," she said. "And it doesn't take you long to find out that most people are pretty nice.

"Men who travel regularly make the best passengers. "They are rarely unreasonable, and are appreciative of anything you do for them.

"One passenger always brings a candy bar for the stewardess. Another shows up with a box of candy for the crew, then goes to sleep. Many people are so used to tipping everybody that they offer the stewardess a tip—usually $1 or $2. Of course we don't accept it. One hosiery manufacturer always asks the name of the stewardess and mails her a pair of nylon stockings.

"FEW PEOPLE get airsick anymore. It usually is caused by nervousness, and few people are nervous about flying any more.

"Children are the most troublesome passengers, especially if they are with their parents. But a child traveling by himself is always perfectly well behaved."

Jeanne is amazed at the amount of air lore many passengers acquire. One little old lady, told there would be a slight delay before takeoff, looked out the window and asked:

"Is there a hydraulic leak on the No. 3 engine?"

There was.

STEWARDESSES earn from $325 to $400 a month or more, including expenses. They must be 21 years old, weigh no more than 130 pounds, and be between 5 feet 2 and 5 feet 6—and they can't wear glasses. There is a rule, unwritten but observed by most airlines, against hiring married women, divorcees or widows with children. It's a career for single girls.

Wolves are only a minor hazard to stewardesses.

"They don't average more than one to a plane," said Jeanne, smiling. "Some salesmen simply can't quit trying to sell themselves. You'd think being up in the air would improve their line, but it doesn't. How do you tell an airplane wolf? Like you do on the ground—by his leer."

THE AVERAGE stewardess quits in less than two years. In four out of five cases it's to get married.

"Most of them don't marry pilots," said Jeanne, "and for a very good reason—the pilots already have wives. And they don't usually meet their future husbands while flying. Stewardesses don't often date passengers. It isn't a very good policy—generally speaking."

Jeanne herself has most of her dates with a mechanic, and a lucky young man he is.

This is particularly true because she has lowered one of her early marital goals.

"I used to want to have sextuplets, because it had never been done," Jeanne confided. "But now I think I'd be satisfied to have three or four children—one at a time."

Men's Stores Have Great Hope Of Doing Big Spring Business

New York, March 22 (AP) — With spring officially here women all over the land are thinking about spring housecleaning. And from that it's usually only a slight mental jump for them to start wondering out loud if their husband couldn't stand a little sprucing up, too.

Men's stores applaud this notion. They have high hopes that the trend toward more elegant male attire, first spotted here and there last fall, will blossom with the spring flowers and perk up sales totals.

A HUSBAND'S reaction to his wife's campaign to upgrade his appearance often runs like this: After a man buys spring outfits for his wife and children, there's scarcely enough money left to meet the payments due on the house, the car, the TV set and the home freezer—let alone for a new suit for the debtor himself.

About all a man can be expected to do is to keep two paces to the rear of his family so as not to disgrace them in the Easter parade.

Merchants are aware that many other things besides a new suit compete for the married man's dollar. But the clothing industry thinks this a shame and is making a special promotional effort this spring to entice males into finer plumage.

GARMENT makers are playing up color, or the lack of it as in the charcoal tones. They're stressing that good clothes are necessary for success in business, for the better social life, and for matching the elegance of the new model cars.

One branch of the clothing industry holds that the best way to get men to buy new suits is to make wives dissatisfied with the way their husband looks. Many men, however, are already well aware of this dissatisfaction.

MERCHANTS say that about half the time wives come along when their man buys a suit. So, at least one clothing maker (H. Daroff & Sons of Philadelphia) has a company program under way to help clothing merchants tell women how to improve the appearance of husbands or sons. The fine points of style, workmanship, fabrics and colors are being outlined.

The National Assn. of Retail Clothiers and furnishers is also plugging hard this spring to awaken style consciousness in a male population tending in recent years more and more to the casual in dress.

JEANS ARE a case in point. Only those who wear them (a multitude) and those who make them seem to have a good word for the denim trousers that are now a fad with the younger set. Makers of conventional suits are trying hard this spring to get men to dress less informally.

And the Tailors-to-Trade Assn., whose members outfit the estimated eight per cent of the male population who now buy made-to-measure suits, has a drive under way to attack new customers in the 21 to 46 year old bracket having annual incomes of from $4,000 to $10,000. The tailors says this group can afford to look better than it does.

THE MEN'S tie foundations is trying hard to reverse a trend toward casual attire that discards the cravat. Hatters claim they see a return to covering the head even among college men, and this summer the industry will plug for charcoal colored straw hats.

The Jewelry Industry Council is cheering the outbreak of bright colored shirts which it says helps sell bright accessories —like pink elephant cuff links.

BANNING THE NUCLEAR TESTS

Every time we detonate a test A-bomb in Nevada, some of our friends abroad react with such anguish as to suggest their next day's breakfast has been contaminated by the radioactive fall-out.

Urgings are heard again and again that the tests be halted, and that this be a first step toward some sort of negotiated peace settlement with the Soviet Union.

The elements in this argument need to be carefully sifted.

First, scientists differ widely as to the effects on humans of the radioactive fall-out from recent and current nuclear experiments. None argues that these inflict physical harm on the present generation of humans. The debate centers on what radioactivity may have done or be doing to future generations through its possible effect on the body's reproductive materials.

Some say the present level and scale of tests is not serious. Others contend enough radioactive substance already is afloat in the atmosphere to do some human damage in generations to come.

Our government specialists evidently hold that the danger is not serious, else the tests would not go on. But certainly there is some doubt, and men could reasonably listen to the opposing arguments.

Yet the urgings from many quarters do seem to recognize any reasonableness in those who doubt the danger. The anti-testers assume all experiment is a menace. They want no more of it. They wish there had never been any. They appear to regard the experimental explosion of a nuclear device as a virtual act of war.

Now, as Admiral Strauss noted in his comprehensive report on the Pacific H-bomb tests, if there had been none we could not possibly know the real size of the world's peril. The horror the antitest people decry (and who does not?) is something they could only have guessed at wildly without the tests. They and all of us might well have understated the danger. The tests measured our plight, and underlined the importance of preserving the peace.

Furthermore, we cannot easily halt the tests so long as we assume—as we must in the interest of the free world's safety—that Russia is trying its best to develop more and more advanced nuclear weapons.

Should it then be asserted that the Russians, too, will be called on to stop their tests, the question arises as to how we may be assured of their compliance. Large atomic or hydrogen blasts can be detected outside Russia by measuring the atmosphere's radioactivity. But how do we prevent the blasts from occurring at all?

To some people spring means floods, to others, flowers. It gets so a forthright politician doesn't know whether to claim credit for it or blame it on the opposition.

YOUNG MEN FOR PRESIDENT

One of the youngest men ever to run for president has been indorsed by the party in his state. This is the 44-year-old Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, whom the recent Democratic convention backed "for any office he may seek."

While ex-Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota was a strong contender for the Republican nomination in 1948, when only 41, the only other candidates in Williams' class have been Theodore Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan. TR became president at 43 in 1901, through the assassination of President McKinley, and was named to succeed himself three years later. Bryan, however, is the real record-holder. The Democrats nominated him in 1896, when he was 36; again when 40, and still again when 48. As the Constitution forbids anyone to become president before the age of 35, Bryan's record may stand for long.

Any busy home handyman can accumulate plenty of jobs to be done. And if he doesn't dispose of them promptly, he may find that he has to do them.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE MATUSOW DEBACLE

Harvey Matusow said his piece so differently on so many different occasions that there can be no question but that his description of himself as a liar is altogether tenable. For instance, with regard to the Jencks Case, for which Federal Judge R. E. Thomason gave him three years for contempt of court, he wrote in his book and stated in his affidavit of January 20, 1955:

". . . There was no basis for my stating that Clinton E. Jencks was a member of the Communist Party at the time I stated so in court."

However, a month earlier, in December, 1954, according to the tape recorded conversations between Matusow and Albert Kahn, his Fifth Amendment publisher, he said:

". . . I know Jencks was a Party member and I said so. I can't say here that Jencks wasn't a Party member after he signed the affidavits because I know that he was. But I shouldn't have testified. That's the important thing. . . . Jencks . . . officially resigned from the Communist Party. Or he could have. Let's put it that way. But in—to my mind—then, in my thinking, it made him no less a Communist because he put a piece of paper down and said I'm no longer a member. As far as I was concerned, Jencks was still under Communist Party discipline. . . . Jencks didn't change his thinking because he issued that scrap of paper."

For some reason, in the New York court, up to the moment of writing this, the tape recordings were not adequately employed, but in the Texas court, the judge stood for no Communist shenanigans and actually rejected a lawyer who had taken the Fifth Amendment. If the Texas judge could ask Nathan Witt about party affiliations, why is the New York judge so delicate about asking Harry Sacher, Matusow's New York lawyer, the same questions. Both lawyers have had identical histories and Sacher was the lawyer who in the case of the Top Eleven Communists made Judge Harold Medina's life so miserable. Sacher was actually sentenced for contempt.

In this situation, Harvey Matusow does not matter at all. He has established himself as a top-flight liar and that will be his reputation particularly as his title as successor to Ananias is self-asserted. What was involved, and continues to be involved in the Matusow Case, is that the Communist Party seeks to make it increasingly difficult for the FBI to employ volunteers who are willing to risk themselves to infiltrate the Communist Party. It is impossible to employ regular agents for this purpose at all times. Without the use of "under-cover" Communists and ex-Communists, the FBI would not be able to safeguard this country from subversion, which is one of its duties by law.

The full story of the brace men and women who serve their country anonymously, at great personal sacrifice and at the risk of their lives, can only be told by J. Edgar Hoover and will never be told because it would not only imperil the operation but those engaged in it. Each one of these persons is worthy of a Congressional Medal.

It was to destroy this system that the Communists were smart enough to find the psychologically weak link in the chain. Harvey Matusow was willing to throw the system into chaos and to open it to propaganda terrorization. Fortunately for the FBI, they apparently early discovered his weaknesses and would not use him. He never really knew what others were doing. Perhaps one reason for his present conduct is that his pride was hurt by the unwillingness of the FBI to have dealings with him after he went into the business of clearing motion picture and television stars for peanuts.

Senator James O. Eastland, Chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, said:

". . . what Judge Thomason has done cannot help but add luster to the Federal bench and contribute to the confidence and respect which the people of America have for the Federal judiciary."

And he added:

"The strategy of the forces behind Matusow has failed because of the honesty and integrity of a competent Federal judge."

It hardly matters whether Harvey Matusow is in jail or not; what does matter is that the scheme to obstruct justice has failed thus far, but other tricks will be tried to test our soft judges and soft prosecutors.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

LIVING WITH HEART DISEASE

It is only too true that many of us are so afraid of heart disease that any little change in the sounds of the heart throw us into a panic. When we consult our physician and are told that there is something wrong with our heart, we receive a great shock. We are not frightened when the doctor says, "Your stomach or gall bladder is not quite right." But when he says, "You have heart disease," fear clutches at our heart. We think at once, "How long will I live? How long can I go on earning my living? Will I have to be an invalid? Will I drop dead?

The great trouble with all of us is that we have inherited the idea that heart disease usually kills and often kills quickly. Actually, many forms of heart disease are mild, without symptoms, and do not prevent the patient from living a long life. Many persons would be much less frightened if they knew how often their fast pulse, or their palpitation, or air hunger, or "thumping," is due purely to nervousness or the strain of a trying day. It may help to remember that the heart is a strong muscle, bigger and stranger than it needs to be for our everyday work, and has a large reserve of power that helps people do strenuous things, such as playing tennis. It is this reserve of strength that comes to a person's help and commonly saves his life when some part of his heart is injured or when his blood pressure stays up over 200.

Some people are frightened when told that their heart is enlarged but they should remember that this increase in size is an asset because when overworked, the heart muscle develops and gets larger and this may enable it to carry on satisfactorily for years, in spite of the overload of pumping against high blood pressure or against a leaking valve.

What should the person with heart disease remember? The most important thing is usually to learn to live within his limits of strength. He must not do anything that will push his heart to the breaking point. He must not run for a bus; he must not hurry; he must not get angry and "blow his top"; he must not struggle to move heavy furniture, change a tire, or shovel snow. He should not try to cross the street in the middle of a green light as it may change and force him to rush to gain the other side. He should always try to start early for an appointment. Many a man has his first attack of coronary heart disease while hurrying, late for an appointment.

There may have to be a change in some of his living habits. To get away from stairs he may have to move to a one-story-house or apartment or move out of a house that is on a hill. He may have to give up hunting or playing 18 holes of golf on a hilly course. Washington — (NEA) — Spring comes early in Washington, and on a warm, wet day recently a capital citizen and wife —they prefer not to be named— were driving out Massachusetts avenue, N.W. In suburban Maryland, they spotted a woman in distress. Her car had become hopelessly stuck in the mud of an unfinished driveway.

The man stopped his own car and tried to give the lady help. But after several tries he found it impossible to push the stuck car one way or the other. In the meantime a steady stream of cars had whizzed by on the busy thoroughfare, but none stopped to give aid.

Just as the man was about to give up and go call for a tow truck, a long black limousine pulled up to a stop. Four husky men piled out. In no time at all they freed the stuck car. The woman driver got out, shook hands all around and was most profuse in her thanks to the five men who had helped her.

"Don't thank us, thank the President," came the reply.

"What President?" asked the woman.

"Our President."

And before she could spell "Ike" the President was pointed out to her, sitting in his own car, and waiting for the four Secret Service men to complete their Boy Scout deed for the day.

Returning from Burning Tree golf course, the sharp-eyed President had noted the woman stuck in the mud and the man trying to help her. The President had stopped his own car and asked the Secret Service detail in the trailing car to give her a hand. But the Secret Servicemen didn't ask what her name was.

Suggestion of Further Top Level Conference Has Its Incredible Side

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 22—The news continues to be incredible. One would have thought, after the publication of the Yalta papers, that the world would have had its fill of secret conferences at which statesmen trade away the principles of international morality for which American boys gave their lives. But just the same the proposal now is being made that some more "top level" conferences be held—this time between Marshal Bulganin of Soviet Russia, President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and the premier of France.

Senator George of Georgia, venerable Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has brought the idea of a "top level" conference into the headlines, though he frankly says the conference shouldn't be held till after France ratifies the new European agreements to permit Germany to rearm.

THIS IS SUBSTANTIALLY what Secretary of State Dulles has outlined as a possibility after the Paris "accords" with Germany are ratified. But Mr. Dulles qualifies it a bit by pointing out that America would have to see a demonstration of good faith and tangible evidence that a conference would be able to accomplish something.

Again and again the argument for "top level" conferences has been advanced by political factions in Europe on the Socialist side who feel that the peace urge of the people everywhere can be satisfied politically by conferences with the Communists. The idea is that there is some magic in personal meetings between heads of states—as if the ambassadors regularly assigned to world capitals cannot negotiate when there is something to negotiate.

Prime Minister Churchill, long accustomed to the deals of diplomacy, has sponsored the conference idea on the assumption that something might possibly be accomplished. He knows, of course, that the chances of any worthwhile agreement are practically nil but he favors a meeting anyway if only to placate the elements in opposition to him in his own country which keep bringing up the subject. Similarly "Left Wing" groups in Germany and France continue to harp on the proposal.

The Communist propaganda all over the world, moreover, emphasizes that it is the western world which refuses to sit down to talk things over. This intensifies a feeling among so-called neutral nations like India that the West is bellicose and unwilling to make agreements to solve world problems.

WHAT THE MOSCOW government knows, of course, is that international meetings such as were held in Berlin and Geneva afford a big opportunity to divide the western allies. For the Communists can count on the pressure of the Labor-Socialist group to keep the Conservative government of Churchill and Eden at odds with America. What finally results is a conference for the purpose of wearing down the adherence of the United States to moral principle.

The Yalta conference was a secret affair. It tore to pieces the "Atlantic Charter." The Congress of the United States knew nothing about its details or its give-aways until it was too late to do anything about them. It now is proposed that secret diplomacy be utilized to make a deal with the Communists and that the heads of the major powers sit down and try to appease the Soviets in their drive for world dominion. The hopes of millions of people in satellite countries would thereby be crushed. The end result might well be further manifestations of arragance by the Communists which could only be resolved by an atomic war.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Ariz., March 21—My disclosure of the fact that Lewis W. Douglas, of Arizona, a member of the "Internationalist" cult which deplores smearing, had smeared a prominent American nationalist and ardent anti-Communist has caused repercussions. I shall set them forth and deal with them.

I believe I will sustain my charge that Douglas spread a rumor which defiled the reputation of a citizen of spotless personal repute and that the victim is not given the chance which all this cult angrily demands for Communists, Americans of diluted loyalty and "security risks." This victim is not permitted even to know who his original accuser is.

This condemnation of an innocent man was related to me and two other persons by Frank Brophy, who has been a friend of Douglas since they were children. Both are natives and residents of Arizona and acutally pioneers of the youngest state. Both are bankers. They are erudite, educated men of distinction and character. Douglas was Harry Truman's ambassador to London.

I related this incident a few days ago.

Brophy wrote me immediately that he was "astounded" and "chagrined."

"I hasten to set forth my recollection of this conversation and correct what I regard to be several errors in your reporting of it," he wrote. "First, Mr. Douglas never told me anything about this matter. I was told by another person that Mr. Douglas had said that he believed certain remarks about (the victim) to be true. Secondly, until I read your account, I never heard anything about a 'psychiatrist' being involved, so I could not have mentioned such a thing."

Now:

Norman Allderdice, a transplanted eastern Republican residing in Tucson, agrees that Brophy did not mention a psychiatrist as the original authority for this derogatory judgment of the victim. I, myself, and the fourth person present believe Brophy did mention a "psychiatrist." All three who heard Brophy's discussion got a firm impression, however, that the anonymous "authority" cited by Douglas had charged that the victim of the smear was a person of repulsive, not to say infamous predilections and character. Incidentally, Brophy, as an old friend of the victim, vigorously repudiated this finding.

Allderdice agrees that Brophy did not say Douglas repeated this smear to him. However, Allderdice does say Brophy said this attack was conveyed to him by an intermediary to whom Douglas expressed himself. So does Brophy.

"As I recall," Brophy's letter continued, "we were discussing many of the curious positions which people who were strongly influenced by the 'internationalist' point of view had taken in recent years. I believe I illustrated what I had in mind by saying that my friend, Lewis Douglas, a man of intelligence and integrity, was said to have repeated chargest against ——— which I was sure were erroneous. The point of our discussion, as I recall it, was the completely irrational and emotion attitudes which 'internationalism' seemed to engender in people who were normally intelligent and discerning.

"I think this is a correct interpretation of the conversation you refer to. If, upon recollection, you agree, I urge that you retract what you have said about Mr. Douglas in the role of character-assassin. I assure you I do not agree with many of Mr. Douglas' political views — and never have—but I also assure you that I know Mr. Douglas to be an extremely kind man and one who would not intentionally disagree with such a person.

"I think you have unintentionally used me as a means of doing my friend an injustice and I further urge you to correct this as you see fit.

"I am not a Republican. I used to be a Democrat — but finally registered as an Independent because I could not tolerate the baseness of the Democrats nor the hypocrisy of the Republicans."

So this is the way of it now:

An anonymous accuser prepared written data which Douglas read. The accuser was not a psychiatrist but in Mr. Douglas' own words, "a person who had made, so it was said, a profound study of psychopathic cases of various kinds."

That makes it even worse.

Douglas then conveyed to other persons, all members of his family, this smear by an irresponsible, amateur observer without professional scientific qualifications who never had met the victim. One of those persons, also anonymous, then relayed the smear to Brophy, who passed it on to three others.

I submit that Lew Douglas should name the original source of this attack on an innocent patriot's character so that the victim may face his accuser.

Finally, I am not an "Independent." When I quit the Democratic party I registered Republican in a state where Republicans are a "minority group" in the ominous meaning of that term.

BANNING THE NUCLEAR TESTS

Every time we detonate a test A-bomb in Nevada, some of our friends abroad react with such anguish as to suggest their next day's breakfast has been contaminated by the radioactive fall-out.

Urgings are heard again and again that the tests be halted, and that this be a first step toward some sort of negotiated peace settlement with the Soviet Union.

The elements in this argument need to be carefully sifted.

First, scientists differ widely as to the effects on humans of the radioactive fall-out from recent and current nuclear experiments. None argues that these inflict physical harm on the present generation of humans. The debate centers on what radioactivity may have done or be doing to future generations through its possible effect on the body's reproductive materials.

Some say the present level and scale of tests is not serious. Others contend enough radioactive substance already is afloat in the atmosphere to do some human damage in generations to come.

Our government specialists evidently hold that the danger is not serious, else the tests would not go on. But certainly there is some doubt, and men could reasonably listen to the opposing arguments.

Yet the urgings from many quarters do seem to recognize any reasonableness in those who doubt the danger. The anti-testers assume all experiment is a menace. They want no more of it. They wish there had never been any. They appear to regard the experimental explosion of a nuclear device as a virtual act of war.

Now, as Admiral Strauss noted in his comprehensive report on the Pacific H-bomb tests, if there had been none we could not possibly know the real size of the world's peril. The horror the antitest people decry (and who does not?) is something they could only have guessed at wildly without the tests. They and all of us might well have understated the danger. The tests measured our plight, and underlined the importance of preserving the peace.

Furthermore, we cannot easily halt the tests so long as we assume—as we must in the interest of the free world's safety—that Russia is trying its best to develop more and more advanced nuclear weapons.

Should it then be asserted that the Russians, too, will be called on to stop their tests, the question arises as to how we may be assured of their compliance. Large atomic or hydrogen blasts can be detected outside Russia by measuring the atmosphere's radioactivity. But how do we prevent the blasts from occurring at all?

To some people spring means floods, to others, flowers. It gets so a forthright politician doesn't know whether to claim credit for it or blame it on the opposition.

YOUNG MEN FOR PRESIDENT

One of the youngest men ever to run for president has been indorsed by the party in his state. This is the 44-year-old Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, whom the recent Democratic convention backed "for any office he may seek."

While ex-Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota was a strong contender for the Republican nomination in 1948, when only 41, the only other candidates in Williams' class have been Theodore Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan. TR became president at 43 in 1901, through the assassination of President McKinley, and was named to succeed himself three years later. Bryan, however, is the real record-holder. The Democrats nominated him in 1896, when he was 36; again when 40, and still again when 48. As the Constitution forbids anyone to become president before the age of 35, Bryan's record may stand for long.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE MATUSOW DEBACLE

Harvey Matusow said his piece so differently on so many different occasions that there can be no question but that his description of himself as a liar is altogether tenable. For instance, with regard to the Jencks Case, for which Federal Judge R. E. Thomason gave him three years for contempt of court, he wrote in his book and stated in his affidavit of January 20, 1955:

". . . There was no basis for my stating that Clinton E. Jencks was a member of the Communist Party at the time I stated so in court."

However, a month earlier, in December, 1954, according to the tape recorded conversations between Matusow and Albert Kahn, his Fifth Amendment publisher, he said:

". . . I know Jencks was a Party member and I said so. I can't say here that Jencks wasn't a Party member after he signed the affidavits because I know that he was. But I shouldn't have testified. That's the important thing. . . . Jencks . . . officially resigned from the Communist Party. Or he could have. Let's put it that way. But in—to my mind—then, in my thinking, it made him no less a Communist because he put a piece of paper down and said I'm no longer a member. As far as I was concerned, Jencks was still under Communist Party discipline. . . . Jencks didn't change his thinking because he issued that scrap of paper."

For some reason, in the New York court, up to the moment of writing this, the tape recordings were not adequately employed, but in the Texas court, the judge stood for no Communist shenanigans and actually rejected a lawyer who had taken the Fifth Amendment. If the Texas judge could ask Nathan Witt about party affiliations, why is the New York judge so delicate about asking Harry Sacher, Matusow's New York lawyer, the same questions. Both lawyers have had identical histories and Sacher was the lawyer who in the case of the Top Eleven Communists made Judge Harold Medina's life so miserable. Sacher was actually sentenced for contempt.

In this situation, Harvey Matusow does not matter at all. He has established himself as a top-flight liar and that will be his reputation particularly as his title as successor to Ananias is self-asserted. What was involved, and continues to be involved in the Matusow Case, is that the Communist Party seeks to make it increasingly difficult for the FBI to employ volunteers who are willing to risk themselves to infiltrate the Communist Party. It is impossible to employ regular agents for this purpose at all times. Without the use of "under-cover" Communists and ex-Communists, the FBI would not be able to safeguard this country from subversion, which is one of its duties by law.

The full story of the brace men and women who serve their country anonymously, at great personal sacrifice and at the risk of their lives, can only be told by J. Edgar Hoover and will never be told because it would not only imperil the operation but those engaged in it. Each one of these persons is worthy of a Congressional Medal.

It was to destroy this system that the Communists were smart enough to find the psychologically weak link in the chain. Harvey Matusow was willing to throw the system into chaos and to open it to propaganda terrorization. Fortunately for the FBI, they apparently early discovered his weaknesses and would not use him. He never really knew what others were doing. Perhaps one reason for his present conduct is that his pride was hurt by the unwillingness of the FBI to have dealings with him after he went into the business of clearing motion picture and television stars for peanuts.

Senator James O. Eastland, Chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, said:

". . . what Judge Thomason has done cannot help but add luster to the Federal bench and contribute to the confidence and respect which the people of America have for the Federal judiciary."

And he added:

"The strategy of the forces behind Matusow has failed because of the honesty and integrity of a competent Federal judge."

It hardly matters whether Harvey Matusow is in jail or not; what does matter is that the scheme to obstruct justice has failed thus far, but other tricks will be tried to test our soft judges and soft prosecutors.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

LIVING WITH HEART DISEASE

It is only too true that many of us are so afraid of heart disease that any little change in the sounds of the heart throw us into a panic. When we consult our physician and are told that there is something wrong with our heart, we receive a great shock. We are not frightened when the doctor says, "Your stomach or gall bladder is not quite right." But when he says, "You have heart disease," fear clutches at our heart. We think at once, "How long will I live? How long can I go on earning my living? Will I have to be an invalid? Will I drop dead?

The great trouble with all of us is that we have inherited the idea that heart disease usually kills and often kills quickly. Actually, many forms of heart disease are mild, without symptoms, and do not prevent the patient from living a long life. Many persons would be much less frightened if they knew how often their fast pulse, or their palpitation, or air hunger, or "thumping," is due purely to nervousness or the strain of a trying day. It may help to remember that the heart is a strong muscle, bigger and stranger than it needs to be for our everyday work, and has a large reserve of power that helps people do strenuous things, such as playing tennis. It is this reserve of strength that comes to a person's help and commonly saves his life when some part of his heart is injured or when his blood pressure stays up over 200.

Some people are frightened when told that their heart is enlarged but they should remember that this increase in size is an asset because when overworked, the heart muscle develops and gets larger and this may enable it to carry on satisfactorily for years, in spite of the overload of pumping against high blood pressure or against a leaking valve.

What should the person with heart disease remember? The most important thing is usually to learn to live within his limits of strength. He must not do anything that will push his heart to the breaking point. He must not run for a bus; he must not hurry; he must not get angry and "blow his top"; he must not struggle to move heavy furniture, change a tire, or shovel snow. He should not try to cross the street in the middle of a green light as it may change and force him to rush to gain the other side. He should always try to start early for an appointment. Many a man has his first attack of coronary heart disease while hurrying, late for an appointment.

There may have to be a change in some of his living habits. To get away from stairs he may have to move to a one-story-house or apartment or move out of a house that is on a hill. He may have to give up hunting or playing 18 holes of golf on a hilly course. His own physician, who understands the condition of his heart, will tell him just what activities will be safe for him, and this advice should be followed. Tomorrow we will speak about some further details, such as diet, rest, etc.

Washington, March 22—The news continues to be incredible. One would have thought, after the publication of the Yalta papers, that the world would have had its fill of secret conferences at which statesmen trade away the principles of international morality for which American boys gave their lives. But just the same the proposal now is being made that some more "top level" conferences be held—this time between Marshal Bulganin of Soviet Russia, President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and the premier of France.

Senator George of Georgia, venerable Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has brought the idea of a "top level" conference into the headlines, though he frankly says the conference shouldn't be held till after France ratifies the new European agreements to permit Germany to rearm.

THIS IS SUBSTANTIALLY what Secretary of State Dulles has outlined as a possibility after the Paris "accords" with Germany are ratified. But Mr. Dulles qualifies it a bit by pointing out that America would have to see a demonstration of good faith and tangible evidence that a conference would be able to accomplish something.

Again and again the argument for "top level" conferences has been advanced by political factions in Europe on the Socialist side who feel that the peace urge of the people everywhere can be satisfied politically by conferences with the Communists. The idea is that there is some magic in personal meetings between heads of states—as if the ambassadors regularly assigned to world capitals cannot negotiate when there is something to negotiate.

Prime Minister Churchill, long accustomed to the deals of diplomacy, has sponsored the conference idea on the assumption that something might possibly be accomplished. He knows, of course, that the chances of any worthwhile agreement are practically nil but he favors a meeting anyway if only to placate the elements in opposition to him in his own country which keep bringing up the subject. Similarly "Left Wing" groups in Germany and France continue to harp on the proposal.

The Communist propaganda all over the world, moreover, emphasizes that it is the western world which refuses to sit down to talk things over. This intensifies a feeling among so-called neutral nations like India that the West is bellicose and unwilling to make agreements to solve world problems.

WHAT THE MOSCOW government knows, of course, is that international meetings such as were held in Berlin and Geneva afford a big opportunity to divide the western allies. For the Communists can count on the pressure of the Labor-Socialist group to keep the Conservative government of Churchill and Eden at odds with America. What finally results is a conference for the purpose of wearing down the adherence of the United States to moral principle.

The Yalta conference was a secret affair. It tore to pieces the "Atlantic Charter." The Congress of the United States knew nothing about its details or its give-aways until it was too late to do anything about them. It now is proposed that secret diplomacy be utilized to make a deal with the Communists and that the heads of the major powers sit down and try to appease the Soviets in their drive for world dominion. The hopes of millions of people in satellite countries would thereby be crushed. The end result might well be further manifestations of arragance by the Communists which could only be resolved by an atomic war.

THE SOVIETS have gained in the "cold war" through the conference method. They won their biggest victory at Geneva last year, and they were aided in that victory by the weakness of Great Britain and France.

The idea that three or four men can barter away the ideals of the world for expediency's sake is not new. It happened at Munich because of a craven refusal to face the facts of an aggressor's insatiable thirst for power. And yet, after the exposure of what went on at Yalta, the suggestion of more Yalta conferences now is seriously advanced. It is incredible news and can be explained only on the theory that many people here and abroad have been so frightened by the Communist propaganda about atomic war that they are ready for peace at any price. This is the way to bring on World War 3, just as World War 2 came one year after the Munich conference gave encouragement to the aggressor.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Ariz., March 21—My disclosure of the fact that Lewis W. Douglas, of Arizona, a member of the "Internationalist" cult which deplores smearing, had smeared a prominent American nationalist and ardent anti-Communist has caused repercussions. I shall set them forth and deal with them.

I believe I will sustain my charge that Douglas spread a rumor which defiled the reputation of a citizen of spotless personal repute and that the victim is not given the chance which all this cult angrily demands for Communists, Americans of diluted loyalty and "security risks." This victim is not permitted even to know who his original accuser is.

This condemnation of an innocent man was related to me and two other persons by Frank Brophy, who has been a friend of Douglas since they were children. Both are natives and residents of Arizona and acutally pioneers of the youngest state. Both are bankers. They are erudite, educated men of distinction and character. Douglas was Harry Truman's ambassador to London.

I related this incident a few days ago.

Brophy wrote me immediately that he was "astounded" and "chagrined."

"I hasten to set forth my recollection of this conversation and correct what I regard to be several errors in your reporting of it," he wrote. "First, Mr. Douglas never told me anything about this matter. I was told by another person that Mr. Douglas had said that he believed certain remarks about (the victim) to be true. Secondly, until I read your account, I never heard anything about a 'psychiatrist' being involved, so I could not have mentioned such a thing."

Now:

Norman Allderdice, a transplanted eastern Republican residing in Tucson, agrees that Brophy did not mention a psychiatrist as the original authority for this derogatory judgment of the victim. I, myself, and the fourth person present believe Brophy did mention a "psychiatrist." All three who heard Brophy's discussion got a firm impression, however, that the anonymous "authority" cited by Douglas had charged that the victim of the smear was a person of repulsive, not to say infamous predilections and character. Incidentally, Brophy, as an old friend of the victim, vigorously repudiated this finding.

Allderdice agrees that Brophy did not say Douglas repeated this smear to him. However, Allderdice does say Brophy said this attack was conveyed to him by an intermediary to whom Douglas expressed himself. So does Brophy.

"As I recall," Brophy's letter continued, "we were discussing many of the curious positions which people who were strongly influenced by the 'internationalist' point of view had taken in recent years. I believe I illustrated what I had in mind by saying that my friend, Lewis Douglas, a man of intelligence and integrity, was said to have repeated chargest against ——— which I was sure were erroneous. The point of our discussion, as I recall it, was the completely irrational and emotion attitudes which 'internationalism' seemed to engender in people who were normally intelligent and discerning.

"I think this is a correct interpretation of the conversation you refer to. If, upon recollection, you agree, I urge that you retract what you have said about Mr. Douglas in the role of character-assassin. I assure you I do not agree with many of Mr. Douglas' political views — and never have—but I also assure you that I know Mr. Douglas to be an extremely kind man and one who would not intentionally disagree with such a person.

"I think you have unintentionally used me as a means of doing my friend an injustice and I further urge you to correct this as you see fit.

"I am not a Republican. I used to be a Democrat — but finally registered as an Independent because I could not tolerate the baseness of the Democrats nor the hypocrisy of the Republicans."

So this is the way of it now:

An anonymous accuser prepared written data which Douglas read. The accuser was not a psychiatrist but in Mr. Douglas' own words, "a person who had made, so it was said, a profound study of psychopathic cases of various kinds."

That makes it even worse.

Douglas then conveyed to other persons, all members of his family, this smear by an irresponsible, amateur observer without professional scientific qualifications who never had met the victim. One of those persons, also anonymous, then relayed the smear to Brophy, who passed it on to three others.

I submit that Lew Douglas should name the original source of this attack on an innocent patriot's character so that the victim may face his accuser.

Finally, I am not an "Independent." When I quit the Democratic party I registered Republican in a state where Republicans are a "minority group" in the ominous meaning of that term.

Marbletown Sixth Grade Entertains

Friday afternoon the sixth grade entertained the upper grades at an assembly program the theme of which concerned spring and Easter. Tonya Cudney, Billy Roosa, Mary Parete and Patsy Hasbrouck read poems that told of the various spring birds called, Songs of Spring. Mary Roesch, Kieth Knudsen and Sylvia Sutlovich read about Easter ceremonies in both the U. S. and England. Interesting customs that people follow concerning Easter eggs were related by Beverly Davis, Jerry Howard, Virginia Markle, James Ostrander and Anne Winchell. A baton twirling act was presented by Sally Ruffner and Mary Roesch. The program was concluded with an action song about Peter Rabbit sung by the sixth grade. William Quick acted as master of ceremonies and Karlton Bowers was the flag bearer.

WITH THE ADVENT of spring, the weather has been a big topic in the first grade rooms this month. The children have made a large calendar of March. Each day the type of weather for that day is indicated by a picture such as an umbrella, rain; snowflake, sun, dark cloud, etc. Also appropriate for this time of year are the interesting mobile kites that decorate some of the primary rooms.

The seventh grades have concluded a successful seed selling project, the proceeds of which will go toward paying for a class trip in May. However, since there are two seventh grades this year additional money is needed to finance the trip for such a large group. In order to augment their class treasury, a food sale, including cakes, cookies, candy and rolls, will be held at 7:30 p. m. at the school on Wednesday, March 23, just preceding the regular P.T.F. meeting.

May Take Weeks To Probe Crash

Springfield, Mo., March 22 (AP) —It may take two weeks for Civil Aeronautics Board investigators to complete their study of the American Airlines plane crash which brought death to 12 persons.

Twenty-three other persons were injured in the Sunday night crash.

The pilot, Jack Pripish, who may be able to give investigators some clues, still could not be questioned. He suffered critical injuries.

THE PLANE, with 35 abroad, was preparing to land at Springfield airport when it crashed.

Jack Parshall, a cab official from Kansas City, said after a preliminary survey:

"We may be here two weeks. We have absolutely no clues, but we will go over all of the wreckage minutely."

Mud, snow and sleet hampered the probe yesterday. The crash scene, about two miles north of the airport, was muddied by an all-day rain Sunday. Yesterday rain gave way to snow and sleet.

IN ADDITION to Pripish, whose home is Chicago, hospitals listed these passengers as remaining in critical condition: Roy Hance, Minneapolis; F. B. Steinmetz, Kenosha, Wis., and John Green, Cushing, Oklahoma.

No one aboard the twin-engine Convair, en route from Newark, N. J., to Tulsa, Okla., escaped injury.

21.56 Miles Per Gallon with Mobilgas Special

Toughest Course in Mobilgas Economy Run History

Starting from Los Angeles, contestants in the Mobilgas Economy Run were required to travel the tortuous route selected by the American Automobile Association, through the extremes of conditions likely to be encountered in 12 months of ordinary driving. Within the run from California to Colorado Springs the cars went from a low of 218 feet below sea level to a high of 9382 feet at La Veta Pass—encountered over 100 miles of restricted city driving—competed in extreme desert heat and freezing mountain cold.

1323-mile run in 3 days duplicated year's average driving conditions in all weather

Here is dramatic proof of the amazing mileage that can be obtained with cars kept in top shape and carefully driven—powered by gasoline from the Mobilgas pumps.

Here is convincing evidence of the extraordinary performance and economy possible when your gasoline is powered two ways—with high octane and the three gas-saving additives known as "Mobil Power Compound."

Here is a graphic demonstration that if your car has a modern, high-compression engine and, like all those competing, automatic transmission, you can have maximum power and greater mileage for your gasoline dollar—more miles per gallon—with Mobilgas Special.

Add to all this the advantages of New Mobiloil Special—the all-weather motor oil—that has increased gasoline mileage up to 23%—and you can see why you should stop at the sign of the Flying Red Horse.

Fill up at the Mobilgas pumps. You'll be way ahead of past performances in power—and economy!

WHICH SHOULD YOU USE? If you have a '55 model 8-cylinder car, chances are you need Special. If a pre-1955 car with horsepower rating over 140, you probably need Special, regardless of make or year. These are generalities, to be sure, but fairly reliable guides.

Farm System Vote Off Until April

Washington, March 22 (AP)—A House vote on a bipartisan move to junk the administration's flexible system of farm price supports has been put off until mid-April.

House action had been scheduled for tomorrow, but Chairman Cooley (D.-N.C.) of the House Agriculture Committee decided yesterday to postpone the test. Cooley is a leader of House forces seeking return to the high, rigid support system which was voted out last year.

Rep. Albert, (D.-Okla.), assistant Democrat leader, said the delay was caused by the crowded legislative calendar this week and by an insufficient time available to get House Rules Committee clearance for the bill. But administration supporters viewed the delay as a sign of weakness among the opposition.

Both sides in the price support battle indicated they would use the additional time to try to gather voting strength.

Lenten Vesper Service Scheduled

The regular mid-week Lenten vespers will be held tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers streets. The pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, will continue the series of meditations on phrases from favorite hymns and the particular hymn is used as the theme for the service. Tomorrow's meditation will be based on the line, Never shall the Cross forsake me, from the hymn, In the Cross of Christ I Glory.

Along with the other Lenten hymns, the period of devotion will make use of a penitential psalm, the reading of the history of Christ's passion and special prayers and personal intercession.

Mrs. Lester Decker, organist, will play works which follow as part of the worship, the Chorale Prelude, My Inmost Heart Now Yearneth, by Buxtehude, Sarabande, by Handel and the Chorale, O Lord, My God, by Dupre. The senior choir under Leonard Stine will sing the traditional Lenten anthem, O Saviour of the World, by Goss.

Visitors are always welcome.

Rondout Section

Editor, The Freeman:

It has been quite common practice to refer to the Rondout section of our city as a slum-section—downtown section, and to assert that there is little or no industry or retail trade to be found there. This may be without malice aforethought and without knowledge of the current prevailing situation.

May we refer briefly to the early days when water transportation was the one means of moving traffic, and Rondout was the one terminus for that means. Later, with the development of rail transportation, the terminus for the city was likewise in Rondout. The cement industry, blue stone activity, transhipment of coal arriving via canal and loaded for eastern points in the Rondout creek, was likewise a substantial activity.

With the passing of many of the industries of that day has come our large boat-building plants—Hiltebrant's at South Rondout, the Island Dock taking over the site of the Delaware and Hudson coal storage, the numerous oil plants along the river and creek; the Forst packing plant, one of the finest and best equipped of its particular industry. The Freeman Publishing Company has been here throughout, and has grown into one of the outstanding publishing plants in the river section between New York and Albany; and more recently the Miron Building Material Company is now occupying the Rondout Creek area over a heavy frontage, and is expanding into one of the largest of its type along the river.

Yes, the banking business has moved in part to other sections. The one savings bank at any port of the period under review has remained and grown and is still growing; from small beginnings to deposits of approximately nine million dollars, twelve million of assets.

The retail stores, while not numerous as compared with many years ago, still owned and operated by the descendants of merchants of long standing, good record, and serving no small part of our citizens, are doing business at the old stands.

As a city we should be neither east nor west, north nor south—uptown nor downtown, or midtown. We will be if we do not measure up to the new and greater opportunities now knocking at our doors, present a united front, with no critical or unreasonable references by one section as against the other.

The citizens in the Rondout section do not appreciate being referred to as living in a slum section either by individuals or government agencies. These citizens, to a large extent own their own homes, and they have no misgivings about the location. They have through the years bought and paid for these homes little by little, working with industry and integrity, with no government financing, and causing no loss to our local financial institutions that have financed them.

Forgetting the division by location and meeting under one banner will make for the best interests of our City of Kingston.

Yours very truly,
H. H. FLEMMING.

Mrs. Gross Was Amused

March 19, 1955

Editor, The Freeman:

Your article in Freeman last Thursday night amused me no end. You ask the people of Kingston to help keep city tidy. Well, here's one for you to see the Board of Public Works about. I have a shop on North Front street and for the past four weeks they come in my shop blinded by the dirt and sand left after sanding city streets all winter. Seems to me the BPW at least could wash this filth away, since no snow removal was necessary. How do they earn their keep?

Keating Is . . .

simple one. Has the respondent, Keating, wilfully and unlawfully refused to answer the questions put to him by the grand jury?

"The respondent claims privileged communications between him and his 'sources.' There is no such privileged communication under the law. Surely the New York City Anti-Crime Committee Inc., and the respondent Keating can not claim the right to a privilege which does not exist—a right which not even the police department and other governmental agencies have been afforded."

THE MAXIMUM sentence which Keating could have received was 30 days imprisonment and a $250 fine.

Goldstein took testimony on the district attorney's contempt motion yesterday but had reserved decision overnight.

At the conclusion of the session yesterday, Goldstein said the basic issues were whether the grand jury asked Keating relevant questions and whether he had "deliberately and not accidentally refused to answer questions."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Girl Scouts Learn About Good Grooming

Woodstock, March 21 — Fourteen members of Girl Scout Troop 12 went to Pauline's Beauty Shop last Friday afternoon for instruction in connection with the good grooming badge. Names of the girls to receive shampoos, hair style and manicure were pulled from a hat. Marie Klippel won the shampoo, and Judy Rapp the manicure. The treatments were given in the form of a demonstration, although tips an assistance on the care of the hair and skin were given to the other girls present. The demonstrations and advice were given by Mrs. Pauline Marko, and her two assistants Mrs. Paul Kysely and Mrs. George Kelley. Mrs. Marko also served refreshments to all of her guests.

The members of Troop 12 mailed last week to the U. S. Naval Hospital Stamp Club in San Diego, Calif., a box of stamps which they have collected for the veterans who are making their own stamp collections. The troop also delivered their first large batch of pictures for the Woodstock Library vertical file and have started on their second group of pictures for the file. The pictures were sorted at the home of Mrs. Charles Rapp, troop leader.

Mrs. Paul Haeussler has also begun her classes in connection with the Child Care badge for the members of Troop 12. They are held on Monday and Friday afternoons at her home, with two groups of seven girls each working for the badge. Mrs. Haeussler is a trained nurse and has helped the girls in the past with their Home Nurse and First Aid badges. She is also a member of the Troop 12 committee. The members of the troop are also working on their Cook badge and are in the process of compiling a cook book. The committee in charge is composed of Diane Shults, Carol Hefty and Judy Rapp. Any girl may submit a recipe providing she has tried it herself. Also 12 girls in the troop are working on the Pen Pal badge.

At the last meeting they talked about several pen pals in England. Judy Rapp described her letters from Croyden, England. Virginia Modjeska told about two pen pals in Japan and displayed gifts and post cards from that country. Part of the requirements of the pen pal badge is to share the information received with other members of the troop.

On March 11 almost all members of Troop 74 went to see Mariners Ahoy at Kingston Theatre. This picture was shown especially for Girl Scout Week. Mrs. Joseph Marr and Mrs. Charles Van Voorhis accompanied the girls.

At the March 15 meeting new officers were elected for Troop 74. They were Joyce Van Voorhis and Dorothy Haeussler, new patrol leaders, and Suzanne Jurgensen, treasurer, and Barbara Mower, scribe or secretary. The girls voted the daffodil as their troop crest.

Mrs. Charles King, consultant on the seamstress badge, for Troop 74, taught the girls how to put on a needed patch and how to lengthen a skirt by letting down the hem. Next week the girls will have a sewing bee to repair their own clothing.

Last Tuesday the members of Brownie Troop 82 and Girl Scout Troop 88 of Bearsville made place mats and napkins with their Brownie and Girl Scout insignia for display at the PTA meeting last week at the Onteora School. Troop 88 made a mobile illustrating the 11 fields of Girl Scouting. The troop committee met Friday at the home of Mrs. Edmund Gilligan.

Mrs. Ostier Advises On Wearing Jewelry

Woodstock, March 21—Marianne Ostier, famous jewelry designer and wife of a Fifth avenue manufacturer of precious jewels, has given some valuable tips, the subject of a feature article by Antoinette Donnelly in the New York Sunday News and Chicago Herald Tribune on How and How Not to Wear Jewelry. Mrs. Ostier is a summer resident of Ohayo Mountain.

Miss Donnelly asks: "Do you know whether your neck is small, medium or large? It makes a lot of difference in choosing a necklace. Your necklace size can't be judged by the size dress you wear; but it can be accurately measured.

"Place a piece of cord around the base of the throat. It should meet but not draw tight. Measure the cord. The size probably will be between 14 and 16½ inches. That is your necklace size. Now your choker size, since a choker is usually worn higher on the neck, runs from 12½ to 14 inches.

"If your neck is large," Mrs. Ostier advises, "don't wear a pearl necklace straight around. Intersperse the pearls with colored stones to break the line. In fact, don't wear any tight jewelry around your neck. A necklace with a V-line or a pendant makes the neck appear smaller and the face slenderer.

"Incidentally, contrary to popular belief, large beads tend to make the neck look smaller, but don't wear them large if your neck is both full and short.

"If the neck is short, a lower neckline helps to elongate it and long beads might be better than a necklace. Eliminate collars, scarfs and anything stuffy looking.

"If the neck is thin and not so fair and smooth, a tiny chiffon scarf in a becoming color, with the necklace worn over the scarf, may be quite flattering. A necklace at the base of the throat is younger-looking than a choker."

Mrs. Ostier, who is the winner of the U.S.A. Diamond Award, believes that pendants are elegant. "As for earrings," she told Miss Donnelly, "button shapes are more youthful than pendants but the latter are very elegant, especially for evening. But don't wear round ear-buttons if your face is round; a broken circle is less severe. One example of the broken circle is a round blossom with its petals. Another is the heart shape.

"Cheekbones are a clue to what you can wear. If the cheekbones are high and the cheeks hollow, a large ornament on the lobe tends to fill in the face and is more flattering to you.

"There is more to a ring than the finger size, for it can always be sized to fit you. The proportions and lines are the features that must be right for your particular hand.

"A pointed setting, running up and down the finger, makes the fingers look more graceful than a round setting. The so-called marquise ring, which is boat-shaped and filled in with small diamonds, is really slenderizing to the hand.

"The narrower the band of the ring, the larger the setting appears. This is a good point in connection with the engagement ring—the diamond looks larger if the ring-band is narrow."

On the subject of wedding bands, Mrs. Ostier says that "A wide wedding band makes the fingers look short. Too tight a band makes fingers look fat—just like too tight a belt around your middle!

"If your hands are no longer your best feature, don't put all your dollars into eye-drawing rings and bracelets. Make a hobby of pretty gloves. Wear them whenever possible, and put a single lovely bracelet on the outside of one glove."

Mrs. Ostier admonishes that "those who wear rings should remember they require more frequent cleaning than any other piece of jewelry and hands that wear rings should be meticulously manicured."

Mrs. Ostier's tips on how and how not to wear jewelry were published in an attractive booklet and released through the compliments of Ostier, Inc., 724 Fifth avenue, New York.

Sharp Bid Assures Top-Notch Game

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

The bidding of today's hand was easy and reasonable. South had a strong five-card suit, with a total count of 14 points in high cards. This gave him an opening bid and a natural rebid in his strong suit.

North marked time with a response in a new suit. As soon as South showed that the spades were rebiddable. North could afford to bid a game since he had, opposite an opening bid, good trump support and a count of 12 points in high cards together with slight distributional strength.

West opened the deuce of clubs, and South made a correct decision in playing low from the dummy. South could afford to lose one trick in each of the side suits, and there would be time to put up the queen of clubs on a later trick if the need arose. In the meantime, the low play from the dummy gave East the chance to make a mistake.

When the hand was actually played, East didn't make a mistake. He finessed the ten of clubs, and South won with the ace.

South immediately led a low heart towards dummy. When West played low, dummy won with the king. Declarer was now able to return to his hand by leading a trump to the king. It was to allow for such a return that South had postponed drawing trumps.

Declarer now led his remaining heart, and West hopped up with the ace. West led the jack of clubs, and dummy's queen was put up now. It lost to the king, and East decided to switch to a low diamond instead of continuing with the clubs.

The shift to diamonds would have been vital if South held the king of diamonds instead of the ace. South might then guess wrong and lose two diamond tricks immediately. As it was, South put up the ace of diamonds.

Declarer didn't like to depend on a 3-3 break in hearts, but he didn't seem to have much choice. He led the queen of spades, intending to draw trumps with the queen and then the ace, after which he would try to run the hearts.

South changed his plan quickly, however, when West followed with the ten of spades. South overtook in dummy with the ace of spades, ruffed a low heart, and led a low trump to dummy's eight. Now he could cash two heart tricks, discarding losing cards from his own hand. The contract was thus assured.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Girl Scouts Learn About Good Grooming

Woodstock, March 21 — Fourteen members of Girl Scout Troop 12 went to Pauline's Beauty Shop last Friday afternoon for instruction in connection with the good grooming badge. Names of the girls to receive shampoos, hair style and manicure were pulled from a hat. Marie Klippel won the shampoo, and Judy Rapp the manicure. The treatments were given in the form of a demonstration, although tips an assistance on the care of the hair and skin were given to the other girls present. The demonstrations and advice were given by Mrs. Pauline Marko, and her two assistants Mrs. Paul Kysely and Mrs. George Kelley. Mrs. Marko also served refreshments to all of her guests.

The members of Troop 12 mailed last week to the U. S. Naval Hospital Stamp Club in San Diego, Calif., a box of stamps which they have collected for the veterans who are making their own stamp collections. The troop also delivered their first large batch of pictures for the Woodstock Library vertical file and have started on their second group of pictures for the file. The pictures were sorted at the home of Mrs. Charles Rapp, troop leader.

Mrs. Paul Haeussler has also begun her classes in connection with the Child Care badge for the members of Troop 12. They are held on Monday and Friday afternoons at her home, with two groups of seven girls each working for the badge. Mrs. Haeussler is a trained nurse and has helped the girls in the past with their Home Nurse and First Aid badges. She is also a member of the Troop 12 committee. The members of the troop are also working on their Cook badge and are in the process of compiling a cook book. The committee in charge is composed of Diane Shults, Carol Hefty and Judy Rapp. Any girl may submit a recipe providing she has tried it herself. Also 12 girls in the troop are working on the Pen Pal badge.

At the last meeting they talked about several pen pals in England. Judy Rapp described her letters from Croyden, England. Virginia Modjeska told about two pen pals in Japan and displayed gifts and post cards from that country. Part of the requirements of the pen pal badge is to share the information received with other members of the troop.

On March 11 almost all members of Troop 74 went to see Mariners Ahoy at Kingston Theatre. This picture was shown especially for Girl Scout Week. Mrs. Joseph Marr and Mrs. Charles Van Voorhis accompanied the girls.

At the March 15 meeting new officers were elected for Troop 74. They were Joyce Van Voorhis and Dorothy Haeussler, new patrol leaders, and Suzanne Jurgensen, treasurer, and Barbara Mower, scribe or secretary. The girls voted the daffodil as their troop crest.

Mrs. Charles King, consultant on the seamstress badge, for Troop 74, taught the girls how to put on a needed patch and how to lengthen a skirt by letting down the hem. Next week the girls will have a sewing bee to repair their own clothing.

Last Tuesday the members of Brownie Troop 82 and Girl Scout Troop 88 of Bearsville made place mats and napkins with their Brownie and Girl Scout insignia for display at the PTA meeting last week at the Onteora School. Troop 88 made a mobile illustrating the 11 fields of Girl Scouting. The troop committee met Friday at the home of Mrs. Edmund Gilligan.

Mrs. Ostier Advises On Wearing Jewelry

Woodstock, March 21—Marianne Ostier, famous jewelry designer and wife of a Fifth avenue manufacturer of precious jewels, has given some valuable tips, the subject of a feature article by Antoinette Donnelly in the New York Sunday News and Chicago Herald Tribune on How and How Not to Wear Jewelry. Mrs. Ostier is a summer resident of Ohayo Mountain.

Miss Donnelly asks: "Do you know whether your neck is small, medium or large? It makes a lot of difference in choosing a necklace. Your necklace size can't be judged by the size dress you wear; but it can be accurately measured.

"Place a piece of cord around the base of the throat. It should meet but not draw tight. Measure the cord. The size probably will be between 14 and 16½ inches. That is your necklace size. Now your choker size, since a choker is usually worn higher on the neck, runs from 12½ to 14 inches.

"If your neck is large," Mrs. Ostier advises, "don't wear a pearl necklace straight around. Intersperse the pearls with colored stones to break the line. In fact, don't wear any tight jewelry around your neck. A necklace with a V-line or a pendant makes the neck appear smaller and the face slenderer.

"Incidentally, contrary to popular belief, large beads tend to make the neck look smaller, but don't wear them large if your neck is both full and short.

"If the neck is short, a lower neckline helps to elongate it and long beads might be better than a necklace. Eliminate collars, scarfs and anything stuffy looking.

"If the neck is thin and not so fair and smooth, a tiny chiffon scarf in a becoming color, with the necklace worn over the scarf, may be quite flattering. A necklace at the base of the throat is younger-looking than a choker."

Mrs. Ostier, who is the winner of the U.S.A. Diamond Award, believes that pendants are elegant. "As for earrings," she told Miss Donnelly, "button shapes are more youthful than pendants but the latter are very elegant, especially for evening. But don't wear round ear-buttons if your face is round; a broken circle is less severe. One example of the broken circle is a round blossom with its petals. Another is the heart shape.

"Cheekbones are a clue to what you can wear. If the cheekbones are high and the cheeks hollow, a large ornament on the lobe tends to fill in the face and is more flattering to you.

"There is more to a ring than the finger size, for it can always be sized to fit you. The proportions and lines are the features that must be right for your particular hand.

"A pointed setting, running up and down the finger, makes the fingers look more graceful than a round setting. The so-called marquise ring, which is boat-shaped and filled in with small diamonds, is really slenderizing to the hand.

"The narrower the band of the ring, the larger the setting appears. This is a good point in connection with the engagement ring—the diamond looks larger if the ring-band is narrow."

On the subject of wedding bands, Mrs. Ostier says that "A wide wedding band makes the fingers look short. Too tight a band makes fingers look fat—just like too tight a belt around your middle!

"If your hands are no longer your best feature, don't put all your dollars into eye-drawing rings and bracelets. Make a hobby of pretty gloves. Wear them whenever possible, and put a single lovely bracelet on the outside of one glove."

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

TRENDS in musical comedy are slow to spot, but here are four, pointed out by the very talented young co-author of "Plain and Fancy," Will Glickman:

1. More and more musicals are built around serious themes.
2. There is less dancing—the ballet phase seems to have passed (Hooray!)
3. Fewer original stories, more adaptations.
4. Musicals built around a comedian have all but vanished.

What we need now are horses with talent. At least they way need one down at the old Lazy M ranch on Broadway. The Lazy M is what they're liable to call the Metropolitan Opera in a few years, if present plans to revive Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" materialize.

Eleanor Steber, the Met's great soprano, was telling about her experiences doing the opera in Florence, Italy, last summer. And that brought up the strong possibility of doing it here the season after next.

"The soprano has to sing on a horse in the last act," Miss Steber said. "In Florence, I had an Italian cavalry horse that had thrown and dragged a rider only the week before. But the horse behaved beautifully for me."

It reared up on cue, and stayed reared for the right number of bars. It walked on stage and off again, delicately skirting both scenery and tenors. Miss Steber, a Wheeling, W. Va., girl, says the whole experience was grand.

Already, in case the revival here comes through and she's assigned to the part, she's contacted friends in Colorado who raise palominos. Wants to have a nice operatic steed ready — a prima palomino.

This season, Miss Steber is delighting New Yorkers with her role in the newly-staged Strauss opera, "Arabella."

"I heard 'Arabella' in Vienna last summer," she says, "and started to study it. I thought possibly I'd record it. Then Rudolph Bing, the Met's director, called me in and said he had a new opera for this season he wanted me to learn. It was 'Arabella' and he was surprised when I said I knew it."

This is about the thirtieth role Miss Steber has learned and performed. She is among the most versatile of the top-flight sopranos, but the library of good soprano parts is so large that she still has a lot of roles she'd like to do.

Billy Daniels, the "Black Magic" magician, recalled for friends at the Copa his early days. In the low '30s, he sang for $15 a week and tips at the old Hotcha Club. (Now, he gets $10,000 a week, but no tips).

Billy says he used to have to sing "Melancholy Baby" maybe 15 times a night because it was requested by "a guy I couldn't refuse —Dutch Schultz." But the bootlegger gave Daniels one dollar each time he sang it. That old green magic.

AMERICAN MENU:

Spiced Orange Wedges Help Glorify Easter Ham

BEAUTIFUL GLAZED EASTER HAM is garnished with spiced orange wedges.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Martha Tupper, born in Mississippi, now a foremost food authority and wonderful cook as well, sent us a glazed ham last week. It was truly the best. With it she sent spiced orange wedges to serve with the ham. So, of course, we asked for her recipes.

Mrs. Tupper advises us to glaze the ham one-half hour before the meat is fully cooked. Remove rind then, score, and stick with cloves and then brush with glaze every 20 minutes until done.

Orange Molasses Glaze

One-quarter cup orange marmalade, ¼ cup unsulphured molasses, ¼ cup prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco.

Combine all ingredients. Brush 1/3 over ham according to directions. Yield: ¾ cup.

Spiced Orange Wedges

Four Valencia oranges, 2 cups sugar, 1¼ cups water, ½ cup vinegar, 12 whole cloves, 3 pieces stick cinnamon.

Add water to whole oranges to cover; bring to a boil. Boil 20 minutes, or until easily pierced with a fork. Drain and cut into eighths. Combine sugar, water, vinegar, cloves and cinnamon; stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Bring to a boil; add pieces of orange and simmer about 20 minutes. Cool; cover and store in refrigerator. Serve with ham.

Note: Oranges may be spooned into hot sterilized jars and sealed.

Ellen Saltonstall of New York, another friend who knows fine food, gave us an Easter dessert suggestion.

Coffee Jelly Parfait
(6 servings)

One envelope unflavored gelatin, 2¼ cups strong coffee, 1/3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon brandy flavoring, 1 cup whipping cream, ½ cup canned chopped buttered almonds.

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup of the cold coffee. Heat remaining coffee to boiling point. Add softened gelatin and sugar; stir until gelatin dissolves. Add flavoring. Pour into jelly roll pan or any shallow pan to a depth of about ½ inch. Chill until firm. Cut into ½-inch cubes. Whip cream and sweeten to taste. Arrange alternating layers of coffee jelly cubes, whipped cream and almonds in tall dessert glasses.

EASTER DINNER: Shrimp or oyster cocktail, glazed ham with spiced orange wedges, stuffed baked potatoes, baby Lima beans, buttered new carrots, soft rolls, butter or margarine. Relish tray — celery, radishes, olives, cucumber sticks—coffee jelly parfait, coffee, tea, milk.

Curfew Law

March 21, 1955

Editor, The Freeman:

It is with a great interest and satisfaction to learn that the curfew law is now effective in the City of Kingston. Several years ago a resolution was proposed by the Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster county and presented at the September 1952 meeting of the Common Council.

At that time the old law, adopted April 20, 1906, was amended to change the provisions and also the law which has been in effect since that date. It was proposed to the Board of Supervisors in resolution form for them to take action and make same to the county curfew law.

The recent outbreak of juvenile delinquency in this community and in other areas, as well, re-emphasizes the need for greater responsibility for building character and imposing discipline among young people.

And the place to start is in the home where it is to be expected that children will be supervised. The lack of parental supervision is responsible for the bad behavior of young people. If children are thrown on their own and especially at night, they are bound to get in trouble.

The home, the school, the church and the social forces of the community are pastures, but in order to achieve results they all must do everything within their power to guide and train America's youngsters wisely.

A curfew law wholeheartedly supported by parents and strictly enforced will bring a decided drop in delinquency.

Sincerely,
THOMAS J. MURPHY
President
Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster county.

TRENDS in musical comedy are slow to spot, but here are four, pointed out by the very talented young co-author of "Plain and Fancy," Will Glickman:

1. More and more musicals are built around serious themes.
2. There is less dancing—the ballet phase seems to have passed (Hooray!)
3. Fewer original stories, more adaptations.
4. Musicals built around a comedian have all but vanished.

What we need now are horses with talent. At least they way need one down at the old Lazy M ranch on Broadway. The Lazy M is what they're liable to call the Metropolitan Opera in a few years, if present plans to revive Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" materialize.

Eleanor Steber, the Met's great soprano, was telling about her experiences doing the opera in Florence, Italy, last summer. And that brought up the strong possibility of doing it here the season after next.

"The soprano has to sing on a horse in the last act," Miss Steber said. "In Florence, I had an Italian cavalry horse that had thrown and dragged a rider only the week before. But the horse behaved beautifully for me."

It reared up on cue, and stayed reared for the right number of bars. It walked on stage and off again, delicately skirting both scenery and tenors. Miss Steber, a Wheeling, W. Va., girl, says the whole experience was grand.

Already, in case the revival here comes through and she's assigned to the part, she's contacted friends in Colorado who raise palominos. Wants to have a nice operatic steed ready — a prima palomino.

This season, Miss Steber is delighting New Yorkers with her role in the newly-staged Strauss opera, "Arabella."

"I heard 'Arabella' in Vienna last summer," she says, "and started to study it. I thought possibly I'd record it. Then Rudolph Bing, the Met's director, called me in and said he had a new opera for this season he wanted me to learn. It was 'Arabella' and he was surprised when I said I knew it."

This is about the thirtieth role Miss Steber has learned and performed. She is among the most versatile of the top-flight sopranos, but the library of good soprano parts is so large that she still has a lot of roles she'd like to do.

Billy Daniels, the "Black Magic" magician, recalled for friends at the Copa his early days. In the low '30s, he sang for $15 a week and tips at the old Hotcha Club. (Now, he gets $10,000 a week, but no tips).

Billy says he used to have to sing "Melancholy Baby" maybe 15 times a night because it was requested by "a guy I couldn't refuse —Dutch Schultz." But the bootlegger gave Daniels one dollar each time he sang it. That old green magic.

Brazil possesses Latin America's largest steel mill, booming Volta Redonda, located 60 miles from Rio de Janeiro. Built by United States and Brazilian capital, the steel center can turn out 600,000 tons of rolled steel products a year, enough for a third of Brazil's needs, says the National Geographic Society.

Spiced Orange Wedges Help Glorify Easter Ham

BEAUTIFUL GLAZED EASTER HAM is garnished with spiced orange wedges.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Martha Tupper, born in Mississippi, now a foremost food authority and wonderful cook as well, sent us a glazed ham last week. It was truly the best. With it she sent spiced orange wedges to serve with the ham. So, of course, we asked for her recipes.

Mrs. Tupper advises us to glaze the ham one-half hour before the meat is fully cooked. Remove rind then, score, and stick with cloves and then brush with glaze every 20 minutes until done.

Orange Molasses Glaze

One-quarter cup orange marmalade, ¼ cup unsulphured molasses, ¼ cup prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco.

Combine all ingredients. Brush 1/3 over ham according to directions. Yield: ¾ cup.

Spiced Orange Wedges

Four Valencia oranges, 2 cups sugar, 1¼ cups water, ½ cup vinegar, 12 whole cloves, 3 pieces stick cinnamon.

Add water to whole oranges to cover; bring to a boil. Boil 20 minutes, or until easily pierced with a fork. Drain and cut into eighths. Combine sugar, water, vinegar, cloves and cinnamon; stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Bring to a boil; add pieces of orange and simmer about 20 minutes. Cool; cover and store in refrigerator. Serve with ham.

Note: Oranges may be spooned into hot sterilized jars and sealed.

Ellen Saltonstall of New York, another friend who knows fine food, gave us an Easter dessert suggestion.

Coffee Jelly Parfait
(6 servings)

One envelope unflavored gelatin, 2¼ cups strong coffee, 1/3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon brandy flavoring, 1 cup whipping cream, ½ cup canned chopped buttered almonds.

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup of the cold coffee. Heat remaining coffee to boiling point. Add softened gelatin and sugar; stir until gelatin dissolves. Add flavoring. Pour into jelly roll pan or any shallow pan to a depth of about ½ inch. Chill until firm. Cut into ½-inch cubes. Whip cream and sweeten to taste. Arrange alternating layers of coffee jelly cubes, whipped cream and almonds in tall dessert glasses.

EASTER DINNER: Shrimp or oyster cocktail, glazed ham with spiced orange wedges, stuffed baked potatoes, baby Lima beans, buttered new carrots, soft rolls, butter or margarine. Relish tray — celery, radishes, olives, cucumber sticks—coffee jelly parfait, coffee, tea, milk.

Permits, Drawings Must Be Filed Before Jobs Start

Zoning permits for buildings and duplicate drawings required for other installations must be filed with the Department of Buildings, S. Burrell Schwarzwaelder, superintendent of buildings, emphasized in a notice released today.

Adoption in 1954 by the city of the state building code, he said, mades this mandatory, and he asked the cooperation of all architects, contractors, and those who install oil burners or add fire escapes to comply with the multiple dwelling law.

FOR INSTALLATION of oil burners or conversion burners, he stressed, "permits must be obtained from this department before the starting of any work in connection with the installation of the same."

For erection of fire escapes, he said, "it will be necessary for the fabricators to file with this department, a sketch showing the exact location where the escape will be placed on the building."

Senator Describes

cious atomically cooked turkey.

After dinner had been concluded the real shakedown maneuvers of the Nautilus began. Now that his guests had become thorough conditioned for it, as he thought, the captain ordered the Nautilus put through her paces.

The throttle was opened. The propeller surged and we excitedly watched the dials as we went faster — down, down, down, down. Then, up, then down. Straight ahead, full power.

THE SPEEDOMETER needle moved rapidly clockwise, receding only as the Nautilus took sharp banks and turns. Straight ahead again through the deep, and again the speedometer moved clockwise until we were told that we were racing under water at a record-breaking speed.

Then, up again; then, down again; up again; down again. The crew intensely watched all instruments, tested all valves, watched the performance of every delicate gadget. As for the members of Congress, we sat tensely watching the depth gauge with one eye and the speedometer with the other.

At the nadir of a deep dive, Sen. Anderson, chairman of the joint atomic energy committee, called a meeting. We gathered around a table large enough to accommodate all 12 of us plus the clerk, Corbin C. Allardice. At first, it was difficult to get committee business under way because members were still watching the gauges.

SEN. ANDERSON CALLED Adm. Rickover before us to ask him about the operation, the performance, the cost, and the promise of the Nautilus. The replies of Adm. Rickover soon broke the tenseness and for about two hours there was an enlightening and penetrating discussion of this man-made phenomenon.

Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) remarked at one point that this would undoubtedly be "the deepest thinking" congressional committee meeting that had ever been held. And I suggested that this might be a good place to dump the Dixon-Yates contract, along with his copy of the Yalta report.

After we had been submerged for hours, I asked Admiral Rickover how many days the Nautilus could proceed under water at full-speed.

"Indefinitely," he answered. "Long enough to go the distance around the world and the answer would still be 'indefinite'."

The significance of this may be measured by the fact that an orthodox submarine can travel full speed under water for only about an hour.

Women Injured In 2-Car Crash

Dorothy Elizabeth Lewis, 48, of New Hampton RFD, was taken by ambulance to Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, for treatment of chest contusions and a fractured right leg received in a head-on collision on Route 52 about four miles east of that village about 3:10 p. m. Monday, state police reported.

Troopers said the driver of the other automobile, Madeline Wittstadt, 45, of Pine Bush, told them she would see her own physician for treatment of a cut over the eye and contusions. The vehicles were negotiating a slight curve in the highway when one skidded on the slush into the path of the other, according to the state police report.

Laws Called Best

James A. FitzPatrick of Plattsburgh, the committee chairman, urged enactment of a bill specifically banning sale of pornographic matter to minors. He said police felt such a law would simplify enforcement.

One of the bills sought by the committee was passed in the Assembly last night.

It would establish possession of six or more identical articles deemed obscene as presumptive evidence of intent to sell the material.

Intent to sell obscene articles is a misdemeanor, punishable by a jail sentence of 10 days to a year, or a fine of $150 to $1,000 or both.

The Assembly also heard an attack on newspaper coverage of the New York city trial of Minot (Mickey) Jelke, charged with compulsory prostitution.

Assemblyman Max M. Turshen, Brooklyn Democrat, suggested the Legislature should pursue its study beyond comic books to what he called "the foul stench coming from our daily newspapers."

Turshen said newspaper accounts of the trial were "disgusting."

His remarks drew applause from both Democratic and Republican members of the House.

Reckless Driving is "Kid Stuff"!

When men or boys engage in reckless "kid stuff" driving—just who are they really "kidding"?

They kid only themselves. They may think they are "superdrivers". No one else thinks so. They may be working off infantile grudges. But why kill the capable drivers and careful pedestrians too? It just doesn't make sense. It's not funny.

It's "kid stuff." Let's stop it!

Senator Describes

cious atomically cooked turkey.

After dinner had been concluded the real shakedown maneuvers of the Nautilus began. Now that his guests had become thoroughly conditioned for it, as he thought, the captain ordered the Nautilus put through her paces.

The throttle was opened. The propeller surged and we excitedly watched the dials as we went faster — down, down, down, down. Then, up, then down. Straight ahead, full power.

THE SPEEDOMETER needle moved rapidly clockwise, receding only as the Nautilus took sharp banks and turns. Straight ahead again through the deep, and again the speedometer moved clockwise until we were told that we were racing under water at a record-breaking speed.

Then, up again; then, down again; up again; down again. The crew intensely watched all instruments, tested all valves, watched the performance of every delicate gadget. As for the members of Congress, we sat tensely watching the depth gauge with one eye and the speedometer with the other.

At the nadir of a deep dive, Sen. Anderson, chairman of the joint atomic energy committee, called a meeting. We gathered around a table large enough to accommodate all 12 of us plus the clerk, Corbin C. Allardice. At first, it was difficult to get committee business under way because members were still watching the gauges.

SEN. ANDERSON CALLED Adm. Rickover before us to ask him about the operation, the performance, the cost, and the promise of the Nautilus. The replies of Adm. Rickover soon broke the tenseness and for about two hours there was an enlightening and penetrating discussion of this man-made phenomenon.

Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) remarked at one point that this would undoubtedly be "the deepest thinking" congressional committee meeting that had ever been held. And I suggested that this might be a good place to dump the Dixon-Yates contract, along with his copy of the Yalta report.

After we had been submerged for hours, I asked Admiral Rickover how many days the Nautilus could proceed under water at full-speed.

"Indefinitely," he answered. "Long enough to go the distance around the world and the answer would still be 'indefinite'."

The significance of this may be measured by the fact that an orthodox submarine can travel full speed under water for only about an hour.

Women Injured In 2-Car Crash

Dorothy Elizabeth Lewis, 48, of New Hampton RFD, was taken by ambulance to Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, for treatment of chest contusions and a fractured right leg received in a head-on collision on Route 52 about four miles east of that village about 3:10 p. m. Monday, state police reported.

Troopers said the driver of the other automobile, Madeline Wittstadt, 45, of Pine Bush, told them she would see her own physician for treatment of a cut over the eye and contusions. The vehicles were negotiating a slight curve in the highway when one skidded on the slush into the path of the other, according to the state police report.

Laws Called Best

James A. FitzPatrick of Plattsburgh, the committee chairman, urged enactment of a bill specifically banning sale of pornographic matter to minors. He said police felt such a law would simplify enforcement.

One of the bills sought by the committee was passed in the Assembly last night.

It would establish possession of six or more identical articles deemed obscene as presumptive evidence of intent to sell the material.

Intent to sell obscene articles is a misdemeanor, punishable by a jail sentence of 10 days to a year, or a fine of $150 to $1,000 or both.

The Assembly also heard an attack on newspaper coverage of the New York city trial of Minot (Mickey) Jelke, charged with compulsory prostitution.

Assemblyman Max M. Turshen, Brooklyn Democrat, suggested the Legislature should pursue its study beyond comic books to what he called "the foul stench coming from our daily newspapers."

Turshen said newspaper accounts of the trial were "disgusting."

His remarks drew applause from both Democratic and Republican members of the House.

Reckless Driving is "Kid Stuff"!

When men or boys engage in reckless "kid stuff" driving—just who are they really "kidding"?

They kid only themselves. They may think they are "superdrivers". No one else thinks so. They may be working off infantile grudges. But why kill the capable drivers and careful pedestrians too? It just doesn't make sense. It's not funny.

It's "kid stuff." Let's stop it!

The Mature Parent

The Real Problem of Working Mothers: Self-Devaluation

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The real problem of America's working mothers is the constant temptation to justify absence from their children by belittling their value to the children.

Few are aware of it. In the male world that absorbs the working mother, there's time only for speed, pressure and competitiveness. So she has no time to notice her growing belief that what her earnings can purchase for her children is as satisfactory as her presence. She is too rushed to realize how she's learning to de-value herself.

What can be done about it?

Well, we'd have to begin by refusing to rate womanly success by the money it earns in the male world.

We'd have to realize that although it gives us cash, it demands in return the vitality that belongs to Billy and Sue.

We'd have to look straight at what it can do feminine tenderness after eight hours' labor in it—and stop insisting that the results are good enough for Billy and Sue.

Yes, as we dispense our damaged tenderness to them, we'd have to know it was damaged and be able to wish it were whole. We'd have to withdraw our pride in our masculine achievements that have exhausted our power to deliver feminine ones.

That, at least, would be standing by our own sex values instead of submitting to those of the other sex.

Men are going to have to help us.

"Both sexes must unite against the values that conspire to destroy the high prestige to which maternity is entitled," writes phychiatrist Dr. Abram Kardiner in a brilliant new book, "Sex and Morality."

He adds: "When women know that the mother-housewife is not regarded as an unproductive drudge, we'll have better homes. We'll have mothers who appreciate their power to develop in children the social emotions upon which our survival depends."

Dr. Kardiner goes on to tell us what can happen to people who subordinate maternal care to economic fight.

These people live on a certain Pacific island. Tradition requires the mothers to leave home every morning to work in the fields. When their toddlers run after them, crying, they are sent back to the girls and old women. The character of these people is greedy, suspicious. Divorce is constant. Their society is falling apart.

They have been denied all experience of maternal tenderness, and so they are incapable of feeling loyalty of affection.

I do not present their plight to frighten us. I report it to arouse mothers to more pride in what they can do as women and less in what they can do as men.

Yours, Truly!

Concord, N. H. (AP)—Gov. Lane Dwinell, at an Executive Council meeting, nominated Dr. Harry Savage for appoinment as associate justice of the Lebanon municipal court to succeed Seymour L. Dwinell. Members of the council asked, "Who's Seymour L. Dwinell?" The chief executive informed them he is now governor of New Hampshire. The governor, who was appointed to the court post in 1944 under his full name of Seymour Lane Dwinell, said he dropped the first name when he was elected to the House of Representatives in 1949.

The Mature Parent

The Real Problem of Working Mothers: Self-Devaluation

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The real problem of America's working mothers is the constant temptation to justify absence from their children by belittling their value to the children.

Few are aware of it. In the male world that absorbs the working mother, there's time only for speed, pressure and competitiveness. So she has no time to notice her growing belief that what her earnings can purchase for her children is as satisfactory as her presence. She is too rushed to realize how she's learning to de-value herself.

What can be done about it?

Well, we'd have to begin by refusing to rate womanly success by the money it earns in the male world.

We'd have to realize that although it gives us cash, it demands in return the vitality that belongs to Billy and Sue.

We'd have to look straight at what it can do feminine tenderness after eight hours' labor in it—and stop insisting that the results are good enough for Billy and Sue.

Yes, as we dispense our damaged tenderness to them, we'd have to know it was damaged and be able to wish it were whole. We'd have to withdraw our pride in our masculine achievements that have exhausted our power to deliver feminine ones.

That, at least, would be standing by our own sex values instead of submitting to those of the other sex.

Men are going to have to help us.

"Both sexes must unite against the values that conspire to destroy the high prestige to which maternity is entitled," writes phychiatrist Dr. Abram Kardiner in a brilliant new book, "Sex and Morality."

He adds: "When women know that the mother-housewife is not regarded as an unproductive drudge, we'll have better homes. We'll have mothers who appreciate their power to develop in children the social emotions upon which our survival depends."

Dr. Kardiner goes on to tell us what can happen to people who subordinate maternal care to economic fight.

These people live on a certain Pacific island. Tradition requires the mothers to leave home every morning to work in the fields. When their toddlers run after them, crying, they are sent back to the girls and old women. The character of these people is greedy, suspicious. Divorce is constant. Their society is falling apart.

They have been denied all experience of maternal tenderness, and so they are incapable of feeling loyalty of affection.

I do not present their plight to frighten us. I report it to arouse mothers to more pride in what they can do as women and less in what they can do as men.

Yours, Truly!

Concord, N. H. (AP)—Gov. Lane Dwinell, at an Executive Council meeting, nominated Dr. Harry Savage for appoinment as associate justice of the Lebanon municipal court to succeed Seymour L. Dwinell. Members of the council asked, "Who's Seymour L. Dwinell?" The chief executive informed them he is now governor of New Hampshire. The governor, who was appointed to the court post in 1944 under his full name of Seymour Lane Dwinell, said he dropped the first name when he was elected to the House of Representatives in 1949.

Basketball Rules Changes Are Made

Kansas City, March 22 (AP)—The National Basketball Rules Committee once again has changed cage regulations.

Some coaches liked the revisions, others frowned on them.

The committee came up with these two major alterations yesterday:

1. The bonus free throw rule will apply to the full playing time of a game. It permits a second free throw if the first one is made. The bonus toss was used in the past season but did not apply in the last three minutes of a game; all fouls in the three minutes were two-shot violations.

2. Free throw lanes will be widened from 6 to 12 feet.

Williams Status Remains Same

Sarasota, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Baseball's most tantalizing question remained pop-fly high today with the spring training season three weeks old and opening day less than a month away.

Is Ted Williams going to play left field for the Boston Red Sox or is he going to keep his once-stated but never repeated promise to retire to his fishing tackle business in Florida.

Sox General Manager Joe Cronin said yesterday:

"There is absolutely no change in the Williams situation from what it was three weeks ago."

THREE WEEKS AGO, Cronin said he didn't know if his 36-year-old batting star would be on hand for the 1955 season.

The Sox's new manager, Mike Higgins, held a news conference yesterday and spiked reports that Williams will sign tomorrow. He told Boston sportswriters "you fellows will be the first to know."

Higgins classified the failure of Williams to report as a "disappointment," but, he added, "Ted has never said that he would be here so you can't count his absence as a loss."

"I haven't given up the hope that Williams will eventually decide to play another year," Higgins added.

COOL AND COLLECTED—They're calling Lurlyne Mealhouse, above, the Ben Hogan of women's basketball because she seems to have ice water in her veins. She's the star of the U. S. team which has won six straight games in Pan-American competition in Mexico City, and her imperturability on the court has been a big factor in the team's success. (AP Wirephoto)

Girl Athletes Are Ready To Aid U. S. Supremacy

Mexico City, March 22 (AP)—The girl friends took over today where the boys left off for the United States and they promised to continue Uncle Sam's domination of the Pan American games.

Main event of the waning 1955 pre-Olympic program for 22 North and South American countries was the three meter drive.

Leading the U. S. into the competition was Pat McCormick, the California girl was owns all the diving crowns worth owning.

THE FIRST section of the event is set for noon. With the finals scheduled to begin at 6 p. m. (EST).

Methodical power and well conditioned numerical strength were the answers to the U. S. display of mastery to date in the games.

The over all picture in unofficial point scoring tells the story of the leaders. It reads like this:

U. S. 925, Argentina 413½, Mexico 256½.

In swimming and diving, the major sport left on the 18-game agenda, the scoreboard listed:

U. S. 47, Argentina 28, Mexico 25.

The U. S. won three boxing championships out of the five divisions in which it sent qualifiers last night, while Argentina won the team championship. The U. S. team was second.

UNCLE SAM threw another knockout punch yesterday when an underdog foursome of Frank McKinney Jr., Fred Maguire, Buddy Baarcke and Clarke Scholes whipped a favored Argentina team in the 400-meter medley relay.

The time was 4:29.1 and it was a brilliant team victory. High schooler McKinney from Indianapolis led off for a slim lead in the backstroke. Maguire, from Maplewood, N. J., held his own in the breaststroke. Baarcke, husky ex-North Carolinian, gained a fair lead and Scholes, the 1952 Olympic record setter in the 100 freestyle, won going away.

The U. S. qualified its three swimmers in the 100-meter backstroke — Cynthia Gill of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Shelley Mann of Arlington, Va., and Cora O'Connor of Lafayette, Ind.

BUT THE HEROINE was a 17-year-old Canada miss, Leonore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B. C., who broke a newly broken record in her heat. The 1951 record was 1:18.5 by Maureen O'Brien of the U. S. Miss Gill did it in 1:17.6 in the first heat. Along came Miss Fisher with 1:16.8.

In basketball, the U. S. walloped Cuba 84-56 and moved into a tie with Argentina and Brazil for first place in the men's division. Under the point scoring agreement, the U. S. will be the ultimate winner if the competition winds up still in a three-way tie.

The U. S. women's team remained in a strong position to win the basketball title. Chile won from winless Canada 42-33, but Chile will have to win its two remaining games, and the U. S. lose its two, to bring about a tie.

THE U. S. WON the first three places in the 25-meter pistol target and silhouette—First Sgt. Huelet Benner of West Point, N. Y., 588 points; Lt. William McMillan of Parris Island, S. C., 577; and John C. Forman of El Paso, Tex., 565.

The U. S. baseball team gained a tie for second place with Venezuela by defeating the Dutch West Indies 27-6. First place Dominican Republic met last place West Indies and the U. S. plays Venezuela today.

Dick Gendreau, Jr., of Ulster Park, a graduate of Kingston High School, has been elected captain of the Ithaca College varsity wrestling team, it was announced in Ithaca Saturday.

Gendreau finished the 1955 season wtih a record of 11 wins and two losses, a new school record, the report said. He also was voted outstanding wrestler of the year by the Ithaca College Sports Association.

Gendreau went into the semi-finals of the eastern section of the national championships before he was beaten by a 1-0 decision.

Semifinals Are Starting Tonight In Hockey Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit plays host to Toronto and Boston visits Montreal tonight for the start of the National Hockey League's best-of-7 semifinal playoffs.

The Red Wings, who captured their seventh straight league title, have been installed 2½-to-1 favorites to retain their Stanley Cup supremacy. Detroit finished the regular season with nine consecutive victories and was unbeaten in its last 12 games.

FOR TONIGHT'S game at the Olympia, Detroit rules a goal-and-a-half choice to beat the Maple Leafs. In regular season play, the Red Wings defeated Toronto seven times while losing four and tying three.

The Wings are in good physical shape with Capt. Ted Lindsay's bruised shoulder the only major injury. But the injury didn't seem to handicap him as he scored three times against Montreal Sunday.

The Boston-Montreal game will be the first meeting between the two clubs since the Canadiens' Maurice (The Rocket) Richard tangled with Hal Laycoe of the Bruins and linesman Cliff Thompson in a stick-swinging duel March 13.

AS A RESULT of the brawl, Richard was suspended for the last three games of the regular season and the playoffs.

Police officials said they plan to have plenty of men on hand at the forum to prevent any disturbance, such as the one that led to a full-scale riot in Montreal last Thursday.

Lary One of Tigers' Big Pitching Hopes

(By The Associated Press)

It was a couple of weeks ago that Bucky Harris, manager of the Detroit Tigers, said "I'm looking for this kid Frank Lary to take his turn as a starting pitcher this year." And Bucky's been taking a good look at the 24-year-old right hander ever since.

Lary is one of those "maybes" in Detroit's hopes for the first division this season. He's not a big guy, only 5-11, but he packs 180 pounds and he appears to be strong.

THUS FAR, Lary has worked 11 innings for the Tigers, more than any other hurler in camp. He's up from Buffalo, where he had a 15-11 record last season, including a seven-inning no-hitter.

Harris figures that Lary, whose brother Al is trying to hang on with the Chicago Cubs, and perhaps lefty Bob Miller, a 19-year-old should be able to take their turn with the likes of Ned Garver, Al Aber, Steve Gromek and Billy Hoeft. If so, the Tigers would have some pitching depth to support a pretty set lineup that lagged just one game out of fourth place last season.

YESTERDAY Lary blanked Baltimore through five innings. Two other rookies, Paul Foytack and Babe Birrer, continued the whitewash the rest of the way as Detroit won 4-0.

It was the Tigers' fifth victory in 12 spring decisions and their first shutout.

Milwaukee's Braves defeated the Chicago White Sox 5-2. Andy Pafko, Billy Bruton and Joe Adcock uncorked homers to boost the Braves atop the grapefruit standings with an 8-4 record.

The Cleveland Indians held on to defeat the New York Giants 3-2. Al Rosen's two-run single in the ninth broke up a 1-1 tie and Don Muller's solo homer wasn't enough for the Giants.

THE INDIANS, incidentally, also came up with a signed contract from Bobby Avila, the Tribe's holdout batting champion. Avila finally consented to the same contract he snubbed last week, reportedly calling for $27,000 and possibly $2,000 in bonuses. He got about $18,000 last season.

Ted Kluszewski hit a home run to put Cincinnati back into the ball game at 3-3 in the eighth, and Johnny Temple singled home the winning run with two out in the ninth as Pittsburgh lost 4-3. Rookie outfielder Roberto Clemente homered for the Pirates.

St. Louis not only lost to Philadelphia 3-2, but rookie first baseman Joe Cunningham was beaned by Tom Casagrande. X-rays failed to disclose a fracture, but Cunningham will be out for two or three days. Two singles and Stan Lopata's home run wrapped it up for the Phils in the sixth.

The New York Yankees, finally warming up at the plate, clubbed the Brooklyn Dodgers 19-8 with Bill Skowron and Bob Cerv each getting four hits. Don Zimmer had three hits, including a home run, for the Brooks. Ewell Blackwell started for New York and was wild, walking seven.

Elmer Valo's home run was just one of 11 Kansas City hits as the Athletics banged the Memphis Chicks 6-1, but it was the first round tripper at Connie Mack Field this spring.

And rumors to the contrary, Boston Manager Pinky Higgins says the Ted Williams situation is "unchanged." Ted still hasn't indicated whether he'll be back.

Higgins classified the failure of Williams to report as a "disappointment," but, he added, "Ted has never said that he would be here so you can't count his absence as a loss."

"I haven't given up the hope that Williams will eventually decide to play another year," Higgins added.

COOL AND COLLECTED—They're calling Lurlyne Mealhouse, above, the Ben Hogan of women's basketball because she seems to have ice water in her veins. She's the star of the U. Girl Athletes Are Ready To Aid U. S. Supremacy

Mexico City, March 22 (AP)—The girl friends took over today where the boys left off for the United States and they promised to continue Uncle Sam's domination of the Pan American games.

Main event of the waning 1955 pre-Olympic program for 22 North and South American countries was the three meter drive.

Leading the U. S. into the competition was Pat McCormick, the California girl was owns all the diving crowns worth owning.

THE FIRST section of the event is set for noon. With the finals scheduled to begin at 6 p. m. (EST).

Methodical power and well conditioned numerical strength were the answers to the U. S. display of mastery to date in the games.

The over all picture in unofficial point scoring tells the story of the leaders. It reads like this:

U. S. 925, Argentina 413½, Mexico 256½.

In swimming and diving, the major sport left on the 18-game agenda, the scoreboard listed:

U. S. 47, Argentina 28, Mexico 25.

The U. S. won three boxing championships out of the five divisions in which it sent qualifiers last night, while Argentina won the team championship. The U. S. team was second.

UNCLE SAM threw another knockout punch yesterday when an underdog foursome of Frank McKinney Jr., Fred Maguire, Buddy Baarcke and Clarke Scholes whipped a favored Argentina team in the 400-meter medley relay.

The time was 4:29.1 and it was a brilliant team victory. High schooler McKinney from Indianapolis led off for a slim lead in the backstroke. Maguire, from Maplewood, N. J., held his own in the breaststroke. Baarcke, husky ex-North Carolinian, gained a fair lead and Scholes, the 1952 Olympic record setter in the 100 freestyle, won going away.

The U. S. qualified its three swimmers in the 100-meter backstroke — Cynthia Gill of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Shelley Mann of Arlington, Va., and Cora O'Connor of Lafayette, Ind.

BUT THE HEROINE was a 17-year-old Canada miss, Leonore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B. C., who broke a newly broken record in her heat. The 1951 record was 1:18.5 by Maureen O'Brien of the U. S. Miss Gill did it in 1:17.6 in the first heat. Along came Miss Fisher with 1:16.8.

In basketball, the U. S. walloped Cuba 84-56 and moved into a tie with Argentina and Brazil for first place in the men's division. Under the point scoring agreement, the U. S. will be the ultimate winner if the competition winds up still in a three-way tie.

The U. S. women's team remained in a strong position to win the basketball title. Chile won from winless Canada 42-33, but Chile will have to win its two remaining games, and the U. S. lose its two, to bring about a tie.

THE U. S. WON the first three places in the 25-meter pistol target and silhouette—First Sgt. Huelet Benner of West Point, N. Y., 588 points; Lt. William McMillan of Parris Island, S. C., 577; and John C. Forman of El Paso, Tex., 565.

The U. S. baseball team gained a tie for second place with Venezuela by defeating the Dutch West Indies 27-6. First place Dominican Republic met last place West Indies and the U. S. plays Venezuela today.

Gendreau finished the 1955 season wtih a record of 11 wins and two losses, a new school record, the report said. He also was voted outstanding wrestler of the year by the Ithaca College Sports Association.

Gendreau went into the semi-finals of the eastern section of the national championships before he was beaten by a 1-0 decision.

Semifinals Are Starting Tonight In Hockey Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit plays host to Toronto and Boston visits Montreal tonight for the start of the National Hockey League's best-of-7 semifinal playoffs.

The Red Wings, who captured their seventh straight league title, have been installed 2½-to-1 favorites to retain their Stanley Cup supremacy. Detroit finished the regular season with nine consecutive victories and was unbeaten in its last 12 games.

FOR TONIGHT'S game at the Olympia, Detroit rules a goal-and-a-half choice to beat the Maple Leafs. In regular season play, the Red Wings defeated Toronto seven times while losing four and tying three.

The Wings are in good physical shape with Capt. Ted Lindsay's bruised shoulder the only major injury. But the injury didn't seem to handicap him as he scored three times against Montreal Sunday.

The Boston-Montreal game will be the first meeting between the two clubs since the Canadiens' Maurice (The Rocket) Richard tangled with Hal Laycoe of the Bruins and linesman Cliff Thompson in a stick-swinging duel March 13.

AS A RESULT of the brawl, Richard was suspended for the last three games of the regular season and the playoffs.

Police officials said they plan to have plenty of men on hand at the forum to prevent any disturbance, such as the one that led to a full-scale riot in Montreal last Thursday.

Lary One of Tigers' Big Pitching Hopes

(By The Associated Press)

It was a couple of weeks ago that Bucky Harris, manager of the Detroit Tigers, said "I'm looking for this kid Frank Lary to take his turn as a starting pitcher this year." And Bucky's been taking a good look at the 24-year-old right hander ever since.

Lary is one of those "maybes" in Detroit's hopes for the first division this season. He's not a big guy, only 5-11, but he packs 180 pounds and he appears to be strong.

THUS FAR, Lary has worked 11 innings for the Tigers, more than any other hurler in camp. He's up from Buffalo, where he had a 15-11 record last season, including a seven-inning no-hitter.

Harris figures that Lary, whose brother Al is trying to hang on with the Chicago Cubs, and perhaps lefty Bob Miller, a 19-year-old should be able to take their turn with the likes of Ned Garver, Al Aber, Steve Gromek and Billy Hoeft. If so, the Tigers would have some pitching depth to support a pretty set lineup that lagged just one game out of fourth place last season.

YESTERDAY Lary blanked Baltimore through five innings. Two other rookies, Paul Foytack and Babe Birrer, continued the whitewash the rest of the way as Detroit won 4-0.

It was the Tigers' fifth victory in 12 spring decisions and their first shutout.

Milwaukee's Braves defeated the Chicago White Sox 5-2. Andy Pafko, Billy Bruton and Joe Adcock uncorked homers to boost the Braves atop the grapefruit standings with an 8-4 record.

The Cleveland Indians held on to defeat the New York Giants 3-2. Al Rosen's two-run single in the ninth broke up a 1-1 tie and Don Muller's solo homer wasn't enough for the Giants.

THE INDIANS, incidentally, also came up with a signed contract from Bobby Avila, the Tribe's holdout batting champion. Avila finally consented to the same contract he snubbed last week, reportedly calling for $27,000 and possibly $2,000 in bonuses. He got about $18,000 last season.

Ted Kluszewski hit a home run to put Cincinnati back into the ball game at 3-3 in the eighth, and Johnny Temple singled home the winning run with two out in the ninth as Pittsburgh lost 4-3. Rookie outfielder Roberto Clemente homered for the Pirates.

St. Louis not only lost to Philadelphia 3-2, but rookie first baseman Joe Cunningham was beaned by Tom Casagrande. X-rays failed to disclose a fracture, but Cunningham will be out for two or three days. Two singles and Stan Lopata's home run wrapped it up for the Phils in the sixth.

The New York Yankees, finally warming up at the plate, clubbed the Brooklyn Dodgers 19-8 with Bill Skowron and Bob Cerv each getting four hits. Don Zimmer had three hits, including a home run, for the Brooks. Ewell Blackwell started for New York and was wild, walking seven.

Elmer Valo's home run was just one of 11 Kansas City hits as the Athletics banged the Memphis Chicks 6-1, but it was the first round tripper at Connie Mack Field this spring.

And rumors to the contrary, Boston Manager Pinky Higgins says the Ted Williams situation is "unchanged." Ted still hasn't indicated whether he'll be back.

Rowan Defeats Betha, Aims at Charley Norkus

New York, March 22 (AP)—Joe Rowan, the Philadelphia truck driver, probably never will pose any threat to Rocky Marciano as a heavyweight challenger, but with some experience he should be capable of holding his own in fast competition.

He's a confident lad of 20, this Irishman, and he looked like a comer, indeed, last night when he earned a split 10-round decision over Wayne Bethea of New York at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

"I'D LIKE to get a match with Charley Norkus next," said Rowan. "And Teddy Brenner (Eastern Parkway matchmaker) has promised to try to get him for me.

Bethea, a youngster of 22 who has had only nine professional fights, got off to a slow start. But he came along well midway in the battle and began to connect with his right. But by that time, it was too late. Also, Rowan changed his style in the eighth and began moving in at close range.

BETHEA PROBABLY will get a return match because of the closeness of the affair. Judge Bert Grant and Referee Mark Conn gave it to Rowan by a narrow margin while Judge Nick Gamboli had it even in rounds but had Bethea the winner on points, 6-5. Rowan weighed 182, Bethea 191¾. The bout was telecast over ABC.

Across town at St. Nicholas Arena, Jackie Labua of New York outpointed Rafael Merentino of Argentina in a 10 that finished with both slugging away but unmarked.

Merentino, who scaled 157½ to 157 for Labua, came to the United States highly recommended a couple of months ago. He had run up a record of 47 knockouts in 62 bouts south of the border, and in his only start here stopped Rinzi Nocero in eight.

But it turned out to be a dull fight with as much clinching and rassling as there was fighting. And neither got in a real good punch, although they stood toe-to-toe and slugged it out many times.

Referee Ray Miller called it a draw, but the two judges gave it to Labua.

Tenpin Topics

By JAKE CHICHELSKY

TOP TEAM, INDIVIDUALS—A topic which can cause a good debate is to name the outstanding team and the leading individual bowlers to appear in Kingston. We can only name those teams and individuals we observed personally.

The best team would have to be the Wagner and Adler outfit, currently in first place in the Metropolitan Major League. They were the best pocket shooters that you would ever want to see. The lineup included Joe Brown, Al Faragalli, Slim Okular, Graz Castellano and Lou Campi. Incidentally, about five seasons ago Campi had 806 and Castellano 802 on the same team in league competition.

Picking the best individual keglers ever to appear here is a difficult task. We never saw Joe Falcaro and Andy Varipapa when they were at their peak. Therefore, we have to select Junie McMahon and Tony Sparando as the best we have seen on local drives.

QUICK LOOKS:
The Friendship League is having the most interesting race in the city. Margaret Mellert informs us that at the present time Sealtest leads Bob Steele Auction by a half a game and the Gov. Clinton Hotel squad by only one full game. . . . Johnny Ferraro reeled off a 300 game in a practice session last week. It was on Alley 8, just in case you were wondering. . . . Burgell "Whitey" Crispell predicts Jones Dairy is liable to hit 3100 when the Dairymen play Forst Packing on 7 and 8 Saturday night. . . . Harry Secreto is giving Brother Lou a close battle for high average honors in the family. . . . That championship bowling film on WPIX, Channel 11, Friday nights should be a must for all tenpin fans. Steve Nagy rolled a 300 game a week ago Friday. . . . Cliff Quick has the distinction of rolling the highest triplicate in local league competition. He had three games of 204 for a 612 series. It was rolled on alleys 3 and 4 at the Central Recs four seasons ago.

JAKE'S PREDICTION:
Mannie Colao will pull over 200 votes to be elected new president of the Kingston Bowling Association Sunday, April 17. We may disagree with some of his viewpoints but he has excellent qualifications to be a good president.

Bird Words Win

Benton Harbor, Mich. (AP)—A 16-month-old parakeet talked radio station WHFB out of $50, a chrome cage and a year's supply of bird seed. The station management said it was surprised its contest ended only a week after it began. But Mrs. Martin Mak said it took her only two days to teach her bird Mickey to say "WHFB at 1060," the winning word. The station operates on 1060 kilocycles.

Feeney's and Frank's Win City Rec Games

In a City Recreation League Intermediate Division doubleheader last night at MJM, Feeneys defeated the Preps 55 to 53 and Frank's Barbershop whipped the Nationals 78 to 57.

Dick Sweeney came through on the foul line in the closing seconds, converting two fouls, to ice a win for Feeney's in a well-played ball game. Ed Feeney connected for 21 points, leading his team in points. Top scorer for the losers was Sammons with 25.

Tony Grimaldi of Frank's was too much from the foul line and under the basket, as he controlled both boards, and rang up 11 straight fouls, scoring a total of 25 points to take high scoring honors. George Smith and Don Van Buren chipped in with 15 and 16 points respectively. Gene Nagele's 20 points were not enough to pull the losers into the running.

The Catholic Youth Organization basketball tournament got off to a flying start last night at the municipal auditorium with three hard-played games.

St. Peter's "A" won handily over St. Peter's "B" Boys, Junior Division, by a score of 44 to 33, the "A" team going ahead 9 to 5 at the end of the first quarter and staying in front all the way.

St. Mary's defeated St. Joseph's, Boy's Metropolitan Division, doubling the score in a one-sided contest, 70 to 35. Jack Houghtaling, center, scored 24 points.

Rowan Defeats Betha, Aims at Charley Norkus

New York, March 22 (AP)—Joe Rowan, the Philadelphia truck driver, probably never will pose any threat to Rocky Marciano as a heavyweight challenger, but with some experience he should be capable of holding his own in fast competition.

He's a confident lad of 20, this Irishman, and he looked like a comer, indeed, last night when he earned a split 10-round decision over Wayne Bethea of New York at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

"I'D LIKE to get a match with Charley Norkus next," said Rowan. "And Teddy Brenner (Eastern Parkway matchmaker) has promised to try to get him for me.

Bethea, a youngster of 22 who has had only nine professional fights, got off to a slow start. But he came along well midway in the battle and began to connect with his right. But by that time, it was too late. Also, Rowan changed his style in the eighth and began moving in at close range.

BETHEA PROBABLY will get a return match because of the closeness of the affair. Judge Bert Grant and Referee Mark Conn gave it to Rowan by a narrow margin while Judge Nick Gamboli had it even in rounds but had Bethea the winner on points, 6-5. Rowan weighed 182, Bethea 191¾. The bout was telecast over ABC.

Across town at St. Nicholas Arena, Jackie Labua of New York outpointed Rafael Merentino of Argentina in a 10 that finished with both slugging away but unmarked.

Merentino, who scaled 157½ to 157 for Labua, came to the United States highly recommended a couple of months ago. He had run up a record of 47 knockouts in 62 bouts south of the border, and in his only start here stopped Rinzi Nocero in eight.

But it turned out to be a dull fight with as much clinching and rassling as there was fighting. And neither got in a real good punch, although they stood toe-to-toe and slugged it out many times.

Referee Ray Miller called it a draw, but the two judges gave it to Labua.

Tenpin Topics

By JAKE CHICHELSKY

TOP TEAM, INDIVIDUALS—A topic which can cause a good debate is to name the outstanding team and the leading individual bowlers to appear in Kingston. We can only name those teams and individuals we observed personally.

The best team would have to be the Wagner and Adler outfit, currently in first place in the Metropolitan Major League. They were the best pocket shooters that you would ever want to see. The lineup included Joe Brown, Al Faragalli, Slim Okular, Graz Castellano and Lou Campi. Incidentally, about five seasons ago Campi had 806 and Castellano 802 on the same team in league competition.

Picking the best individual keglers ever to appear here is a difficult task. We never saw Joe Falcaro and Andy Varipapa when they were at their peak. Therefore, we have to select Junie McMahon and Tony Sparando as the best we have seen on local drives.

QUICK LOOKS:
The Friendship League is having the most interesting race in the city. Margaret Mellert informs us that at the present time Sealtest leads Bob Steele Auction by a half a game and the Gov. Clinton Hotel squad by only one full game. . . . Johnny Ferraro reeled off a 300 game in a practice session last week. It was on Alley 8, just in case you were wondering. . . . Burgell "Whitey" Crispell predicts Jones Dairy is liable to hit 3100 when the Dairymen play Forst Packing on 7 and 8 Saturday night. . . . Harry Secreto is giving Brother Lou a close battle for high average honors in the family. . . . That championship bowling film on WPIX, Channel 11, Friday nights should be a must for all tenpin fans. Steve Nagy rolled a 300 game a week ago Friday. . . . Cliff Quick has the distinction of rolling the highest triplicate in local league competition. He had three games of 204 for a 612 series. It was rolled on alleys 3 and 4 at the Central Recs four seasons ago.

JAKE'S PREDICTION:
Mannie Colao will pull over 200 votes to be elected new president of the Kingston Bowling Association Sunday, April 17. We may disagree with some of his viewpoints but he has excellent qualifications to be a good president.

Bird Words Win

Benton Harbor, Mich. (AP)—A 16-month-old parakeet talked radio station WHFB out of $50, a chrome cage and a year's supply of bird seed. The station management said it was surprised its contest ended only a week after it began. But Mrs. Martin Mak said it took her only two days to teach her bird Mickey to say "WHFB at 1060," the winning word. The station operates on 1060 kilocycles.

Such Dishonesty

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Detective M. A. Hinds quoted the prisoner saying: "Yes, I stole $1,500 worth of tools, but some dirty thief stole $500 worth of them from me before I could dispose of them."

Feeney's and Frank's Win City Rec Games

In a City Recreation League Intermediate Division doubleheader last night at MJM, Feeneys defeated the Preps 55 to 53 and Frank's Barbershop whipped the Nationals 78 to 57.

Dick Sweeney came through on the foul line in the closing seconds, converting two fouls, to ice a win for Feeney's in a well-played ball game. Ed Feeney connected for 21 points, leading his team in points. Top scorer for the losers was Sammons with 25.

Tony Grimaldi of Frank's was too much from the foul line and under the basket, as he controlled both boards, and rang up 11 straight fouls, scoring a total of 25 points to take high scoring honors. George Smith and Don Van Buren chipped in with 15 and 16 points respectively. Gene Nagele's 20 points were not enough to pull the losers into the running.

Barr Scores 2 TKOs, Culjak Is Winner, Kithcart Draws Bye

Eddie Kithcart drew a bye in last night's opening program of the Adirondack boxing tournament in Albany, and two of his stablemates in the Glasco Athletic Club were victorious.

Kithcart, featherweight champion of his class in the Adirondack AAU, is scheduled to box tonight, according to an announcement from the tournament director's offices at IOOF Hall, Beaver street, Albany, where the bouts are held starting at 8:30 p. m.

Johnny Culjak of this city, representing the Glasco A. C. of Albany.

Ken Barr, another Glasco A. C. boxer, fought twice in the tourney, scoring two technical knockouts, one over Carl Edwards of Oneonta and the other over Joe Akey of Plattsburg.

Kithcart, Culjak and Barr probably will box on the Glasco A. C. Carnival of Champions scheduled for April 14 at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, featuring Adirondack AAU boxers and New York Golden Gloves, according to Fred Davi, president of the club.

CYO Tournament in Flying Start With Three Hard-Played Games

The Catholic Youth Organization basketball tournament got off to a flying start last night at the municipal auditorium with three hard-played games.

St. Mary's Girls defeated St. Peter's, Rosendale, in the closest of the three contests, by a score of 25 to 22, with St. Peter's coming from behind to threaten in the closing minutes.

St. Peter's "A" won handily over St. Peter's "B" Boys, Junior Division, by a score of 44 to 33, the "A" team going ahead 9 to 5 at the end of the first quarter and staying in front all the way.

St. Mary's defeated St. Joseph's, Boy's Metropolitan Division, doubling the score in a one-sided contest, 70 to 35. Jack Houghtaling, center, scored 24 points.

More than 24 teams have been entered in competition this year.

Another triple-header is scheduled for tomorrow night: St. Mary's vs. Immaculate Conception (Junior Boys), 7 p. m.; St. Colman's vs. St. Peter's "A" (Junior Boys), 8 p. m., and St. Peter's vs St Mary's, Saugerties (Metropolitan Boys), 9 p. m.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, March 22—A group of youngsters from the Onteora Central School, Francis Caruso of Mt. Pleasant and a professional juggling act headlined the St. Patrick's entertainment at the Phoenicia Parish Hall Thursday evening. They have appeared all over the United States and Canada and have entertained servicemen in Alaska. Their television appearances have included The Big Top. In reality they are Mr. and Mrs. Ward and they are relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Rossman of Shokan. The Wards are in the process of building a home in Shokan and expect to reside there between engagements. They have recently returned from a four-month Canadian tour. During their performance at the parish hall Thursday night they astounded the audience with remarkable feats of hoop juggling. They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Rudolph Rossman, who also sang a soprano solo. The Rev. and the rest of the administration feel George has every right to his opinion.

BUT GEORGE'S position, Knowland declared, "is not the view of the government at this time."

A newsman told Knowland that the senator seemed to be suggesting that the President might be thinking about a top level conference sometime in the future.

Knowland replied he had not meant to convey that impression by using the phrase "at this time." Nobody knows, Knowland said, what the next year, the next five or the next ten years may bring.

Knowland also said he wanted to emphasize that the President and his advisers have the situation under study at all times. He went on to say that circumstances could change, but that there is no present indication of a change.

"The President is prepared to receive any additional facts," Knowland said.

George has linked his call for a Big Power conference with the Formosa situation.

killed per 100,000 population. It was better, also, than the record of 8.8 deaths per 100,000 of other cities in the same population group, 25,000 to 50,000.

Safety comparisons were made also on the basis of the number of cars in use in each city. Considered from this standpoint Kingston was again ahead. Its 1954 record was 0.8 traffic deaths per 10,000 registered cars as against an average of 6.2 per 10,000 cars for the entire nation. For the other cities of its size, it was 8.8 per 10,000 cars.

THE OVERALL PICTURE was one of improvement in 1954. The national toll of 36,300 deaths was a five per cent reduction from the prior year.

High as that figure is, it indicates that driving is becoming safer. Although there are now twice as many cars on the road as there were 20 years ago, the death rate in the period has gone down from 15.9 per 100 million miles of driving to 6.4.

Cars are traveling faster than they formerly did but the greater speed is offset by better road conditions, better brakes and better tires.

Further modernization of the highways, now being projected, is expected to cut traffic deaths by another several thousand a year.

One Plate for 1956

Albany, March 22 (AP)—You will have only one license plate on your car again next year—the same as this year. The state will issue a tab to add to it. Gov. Harriman today signed a bill extending the one-plate law until Dec. 31, 1956 and providing for issuance of tabs instead of new plates.

O&W Official Declares Wages Below Standard

New York, March 22 (AP)—An official of the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railroad testified today that the railroad paid its workers below the national standard but declined to estimate how much it would cost to raise them to that standard.

William F. Mathieson, vice president and general auditor of the railroad, testified at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing. The hearing is to determine whether the road should be sold to a Boston firm or taken over by its bondholders.

Francis R. Curry, an attorney representing the Brotherhood of Trainmen and other operating unions, asked Mathieson whether it would cost the railroad about $1,400,000 to raise the pay of its employes to the national standard, and also to make back payments.

"I CAN'T SAY," Mathieson replied. "It is risky to make estimates."

Under questioning, Mathieson said the railroad was paying yard labor about 36 cents per hour less than the national standard, and its road labor about 25 cents per hour less.

He did not disclose the national standard on other railroads for these types of labor.

Much of the morning testimony, before Hearing Examiner Homer H. Kirby, was devoted to involved discussion of interest on old bonds, mortgages and funds received through various property sales by subsidiaries.

WALTER T. GEISELMAN, a Syracuse lawyer, asked Mathieson about the inland lakes to sea terminal corporation mortgage, which was taken over by the railroad in 1923, when itp urchased property in Oswego.

Mathieson said that he did not know that the federal government and city of Oswego are cooperating on planning a harbor to take ships that would enter from the ocean via the St. Lawrence ship canal, now in process of construction.

Mathieson testified yesterday that even after the railroad went into bankruptcy in 1937 it continued to pile up debts now totalling nearly $9,000,000. This figure does not include some $24,000,000 in unpaid interest on $32,000,000 worth of bonds.

MOST OF THE $9,000,000 debt is in taxes owed to New York state, but there also is $3,000,000 in unpaid federal retirement and unemployment insurance money, plus nearly $900,000 in unpaid employes' withholding taxes and retirement funds.

The railroad counsel, Albert N. Oakes, told a reporter during a recess that the employes would not be held liable by the federal government for the unpaid income taxes, dating from November, 1953, to January, 1955, totalling $579,794. He said that if the ICC approved the sale of the railroad for $4,000,000 to Samuel Pinsly Associates Inc., of Boston, the employes' income taxes would be paid out of the amount, along with $318,607 in railroad employe retirement funds.

Introduction of voluminous historical documents concerning the railroad since it was chartered in 1880 occupied most of yesterday's session.

Two score persons attended the hearing. Among them were 24 attorneys representing interested groups including bond holders, communities, labor unions and others.

Mathieson, who gave detailed figures on the railroad's financial troubles, said that in 1942 and 1943 it appeared that the company would get into the black, but a subsequent retroactive wage increase put it into the red for those years also.

HE SAID the O&W lost $301,925 in January of this year—the most recent month for which figures are available.

Mathieson said the railroad formerly got about 60 per cent of its revenue from hauling anthracite, but this traffic now amounts to only about 10 per cent.

The railroad dropped its passenger service a year and a half ago because of falling revenue.

Figures introduced by Mathieson showed the railroad has failed to turn over to the federal government nearly $900,000 withheld from employes' salaries for employment and retirement insurance, because it lacked the funds.

The principal issue at the hearing is whether the railroad should be sold to a high bidder, Samuel M. Pinsly Associates Inc., of Boston, for $4,600,000. This is called the "best available offer"—for the interests of both the public and the creditors—by Elbert N. Oakes, of Middletown, counsel to the federal trustee of the company. Terms of the proposal for sale would require the purchaser to continue operating the road for at least 10 years.

REPRESENTATIVES of the railroad bond holders oppose this proposed sale. Organized bond holder groups seek to take over the road and operate it.

The main line of the O&W runs from Middletown across New York state to Oswego. There are branches into New Jersey as far as Weehawken and also to Rome, Utica, Kingston and Port Jervis, N. Y., and Scranton, Pa.

Among the figures given by Mathieson were these:

The road's outstanding bonds total 32 million dollars, including 20 millions in first mortgage refunding bonds and 12 millions in general mortgage bonds. Before the bankruptcy, the road paid $41,300,000 in interest on these bonds, but since that time $23,249,125 in unpaid interest has accumulated. The last payment on the bonds was made in 1936, and the company has been lagging hehind ever since.

AMONG OTHER accumulated operating deficits since the bankruptcy are $1,472,489 in unpaid New York real estate taxes, $248,013 in taxes owed to West New York, N. J.; more than three million in unpaid federal retirement and unemployment insurance taxes, $45,000 owed to New York state in franchise taxes, and $142,742 in unpaid state grade crossing elimination charges.

Also included in accumulated operating debts since bankruptcy reorganization started is $2,642,195, much of it in money the company collected on delivery of freight and which it owes to other lines that turned the freight over to the O&W.

Poughkeepsie Alters Rule

Poughkeepsie, March 22 (AP)—Policemen here will no longer be required to live within the city limits—provided they have served eight years on the force.

The common council last night set aside a state law requiring all police to live inside the city.

The council authorized those with eight years service to live outside provided their homes are not more than five miles from the police station and are within Dutchess county.

Negligence Action Settled in Court

In Supreme Court Monday a negligence action brought by Ruth Paris and another against Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, was announced settled. Sherwood Davis and Abraham Streifer for plaintiffs and Cook and Cook for defendants.

A jury was selected in No. 346, a negligence action brought by Judith Dolce against Bruno Kluepel. This action arises out of an accident at the aeration plant at Ashokan, when plaintiff was struck by a car of defendant. John L. Larkin for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

opens on a steep slope that drops away from the side of the parkway. It is reached from a rock ledge 15 feet below the level of the road.

Police said the mouth of the cave, normally about 18 inches square, had narrowed considerably and they feared a cave-in if they attempted to enlarge it again. The youngsters were finally freed after police worked three hours to dig a new entrance from a neighboring cave.

POLICE SAID Ronald went to the cave to hide out after a quarrel with his father. They said the youngster had skipped school last Thursday in order to see the St. Patrick's Day parade after his father had specifically forbidden him to do so.

Ronald apparently persuaded the sisters to go with him to the cave.

A hospital examination found the trio in good shape except for sore throats and other signs of catching cold.

Mt. Tremper, March 22—A group of youngsters from the Onteora Central School, Francis Caruso of Mt. Pleasant and a professional juggling act headlined the St. Patrick's entertainment at the Phoenicia Parish Hall Thursday evening. and the rest of the administration feel George has every right to his opinion.

BUT GEORGE'S position, Knowland declared, "is not the view of the government at this time."

A newsman told Knowland that the senator seemed to be suggesting that the President might be thinking about a top level conference sometime in the future.

Knowland replied he had not meant to convey that impression by using the phrase "at this time." Nobody knows, Knowland said, what the next year, the next five or the next ten years may bring.

Knowland also said he wanted to emphasize that the President and his advisers have the situation under study at all times. He went on to say that circumstances could change, but that there is no present indication of a change.

"The President is prepared to receive any additional facts," Knowland said.

George has linked his call for a Big Power conference with the Formosa situation.

killed per 100,000 population. It was better, also, than the record of 8.8 deaths per 100,000 of other cities in the same population group, 25,000 to 50,000.

Safety comparisons were made also on the basis of the number of cars in use in each city. Considered from this standpoint Kingston was again ahead. Its 1954 record was 0.8 traffic deaths per 10,000 registered cars as against an average of 6.2 per 10,000 cars for the entire nation. For the other cities of its size, it was 8.8 per 10,000 cars.

THE OVERALL PICTURE was one of improvement in 1954. The national toll of 36,300 deaths was a five per cent reduction from the prior year.

High as that figure is, it indicates that driving is becoming safer. Although there are now twice as many cars on the road as there were 20 years ago, the death rate in the period has gone down from 15.9 per 100 million miles of driving to 6.4.

Cars are traveling faster than they formerly did but the greater speed is offset by better road conditions, better brakes and better tires.

Further modernization of the highways, now being projected, is expected to cut traffic deaths by another several thousand a year.

Albany, March 22 (AP)—You will have only one license plate on your car again next year—the same as this year. The state will issue a tab to add to it. Gov. Harriman today signed a bill extending the one-plate law until Dec. 31, 1956 and providing for issuance of tabs instead of new plates.

O&W Official Declares Wages Below Standard

New York, March 22 (AP)—An official of the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railroad testified today that the railroad paid its workers below the national standard but declined to estimate how much it would cost to raise them to that standard.

William F. Mathieson, vice president and general auditor of the railroad, testified at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing. The hearing is to determine whether the road should be sold to a Boston firm or taken over by its bondholders.

Francis R. Curry, an attorney representing the Brotherhood of Trainmen and other operating unions, asked Mathieson whether it would cost the railroad about $1,400,000 to raise the pay of its employes to the national standard, and also to make back payments.

"I CAN'T SAY," Mathieson replied. "It is risky to make estimates."

Under questioning, Mathieson said the railroad was paying yard labor about 36 cents per hour less than the national standard, and its road labor about 25 cents per hour less.

He did not disclose the national standard on other railroads for these types of labor.

Much of the morning testimony, before Hearing Examiner Homer H. Kirby, was devoted to involved discussion of interest on old bonds, mortgages and funds received through various property sales by subsidiaries.

WALTER T. GEISELMAN, a Syracuse lawyer, asked Mathieson about the inland lakes to sea terminal corporation mortgage, which was taken over by the railroad in 1923, when itp urchased property in Oswego.

Mathieson said that he did not know that the federal government and city of Oswego are cooperating on planning a harbor to take ships that would enter from the ocean via the St. Lawrence ship canal, now in process of construction.

Mathieson testified yesterday that even after the railroad went into bankruptcy in 1937 it continued to pile up debts now totalling nearly $9,000,000. This figure does not include some $24,000,000 in unpaid interest on $32,000,000 worth of bonds.

MOST OF THE $9,000,000 debt is in taxes owed to New York state, but there also is $3,000,000 in unpaid federal retirement and unemployment insurance money, plus nearly $900,000 in unpaid employes' withholding taxes and retirement funds.

The railroad counsel, Albert N. Oakes, told a reporter during a recess that the employes would not be held liable by the federal government for the unpaid income taxes, dating from November, 1953, to January, 1955, totalling $579,794. He said that if the ICC approved the sale of the railroad for $4,000,000 to Samuel Pinsly Associates Inc., of Boston, the employes' income taxes would be paid out of the amount, along with $318,607 in railroad employe retirement funds.

Introduction of voluminous historical documents concerning the railroad since it was chartered in 1880 occupied most of yesterday's session.

Two score persons attended the hearing. Among them were 24 attorneys representing interested groups including bond holders, communities, labor unions and others.

Mathieson, who gave detailed figures on the railroad's financial troubles, said that in 1942 and 1943 it appeared that the company would get into the black, but a subsequent retroactive wage increase put it into the red for those years also.

HE SAID the O&W lost $301,925 in January of this year—the most recent month for which figures are available.

Mathieson said the railroad formerly got about 60 per cent of its revenue from hauling anthracite, but this traffic now amounts to only about 10 per cent.

The railroad dropped its passenger service a year and a half ago because of falling revenue.

Figures introduced by Mathieson showed the railroad has failed to turn over to the federal government nearly $900,000 withheld from employes' salaries for employment and retirement insurance, because it lacked the funds.

The principal issue at the hearing is whether the railroad should be sold to a high bidder, Samuel M. Pinsly Associates Inc., of Boston, for $4,600,000. This is called the "best available offer"—for the interests of both the public and the creditors—by Elbert N. Oakes, of Middletown, counsel to the federal trustee of the company. Terms of the proposal for sale would require the purchaser to continue operating the road for at least 10 years.

REPRESENTATIVES of the railroad bond holders oppose this proposed sale. Organized bond holder groups seek to take over the road and operate it.

The main line of the O&W runs from Middletown across New York state to Oswego. There are branches into New Jersey as far as Weehawken and also to Rome, Utica, Kingston and Port Jervis, N. Y., and Scranton, Pa.

Among the figures given by Mathieson were these:

The road's outstanding bonds total 32 million dollars, including 20 millions in first mortgage refunding bonds and 12 millions in general mortgage bonds. Before the bankruptcy, the road paid $41,300,000 in interest on these bonds, but since that time $23,249,125 in unpaid interest has accumulated. The last payment on the bonds was made in 1936, and the company has been lagging hehind ever since.

AMONG OTHER accumulated operating deficits since the bankruptcy are $1,472,489 in unpaid New York real estate taxes, $248,013 in taxes owed to West New York, N. J.; more than three million in unpaid federal retirement and unemployment insurance taxes, $45,000 owed to New York state in franchise taxes, and $142,742 in unpaid state grade crossing elimination charges.

Also included in accumulated operating debts since bankruptcy reorganization started is $2,642,195, much of it in money the company collected on delivery of freight and which it owes to other lines that turned the freight over to the O&W.

Poughkeepsie Alters Rule

Poughkeepsie, March 22 (AP)—Policemen here will no longer be required to live within the city limits—provided they have served eight years on the force.

The common council last night set aside a state law requiring all police to live inside the city.

The council authorized those with eight years service to live outside provided their homes are not more than five miles from the police station and are within Dutchess county.

Police said the mouth of the cave, normally about 18 inches square, had narrowed considerably and they feared a cave-in if they attempted to enlarge it again. The youngsters were finally freed after police worked three hours to dig a new entrance from a neighboring cave.

POLICE SAID Ronald went to the cave to hide out after a quarrel with his father. They said the youngster had skipped school last Thursday in order to see the St. Patrick's Day parade after his father had specifically forbidden him to do so.

Ronald apparently persuaded the sisters to go with him to the cave.

A hospital examination found the trio in good shape except for sore throats and other signs of catching cold.

Storms Punish Cleveland Area

Cleveland, March 22 (AP)—Furious storms, including a tornado, punished Ohio today in advance of a cold wave.

One person died and several were injured.

The tornado hit the Boardman-Poland village area in Mahoning county. Northern Ohio bore the brunt of the other storms which raged eastward through the state and left heavy property damage in their wake.

Fallen trees, roofless buildings and several flattened small buildings marked their path.

FIRST REPORTS indicated that the tornado, so classified by the weather bureau at Youngstown Municipal Airport, injured four.

In northern Summit county the storm took the life of 52-year-old Jack Logsdon, manager of the Raymond Firestone estate. Logsdon was riding a horse in an indoor ring when the winds hit the building and tumbled it over on him. A broken neck was believed responsible for his death.

Poland village, an old residential community on the outskirts of Youngstown, was completely without electricity or public communication systems. Police raido was its only contact with the rest of the world.

Walter White Dies

New York, March 22 (AP)—Walter White, ardent champion of Negro rights, is dead after a life devoted to improving the lot of colored people. He was 61. Since 1931 White had been executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He offered to resign because of illness in 1949 but the resignation was not accepted.

Colonial, Banks, O'Connor Get School Contracts

Woodstock, March 22 — Contracts for the new addition to the Woodstock School were awarded at a meeting of the board of trustees Monday night at the school. August R. Schrowang, architect for the addition, recommended in a letter to the school board that the following low bidders, being known to him, receive the contracts: general construction—The Colonial Construction Company, 41 Pearl street, Kingston, $45,530; electrical work—Joe E. O'Connor, Rosendale, $4,890; plumbing and heating and ventilation—Banks Brothers, Accord, for plumbing $4,900, heating and ventilating $5,800.

Schrowang said in the letter the $65,000 appropriated for the construction of the addition was adquate.

THE PEOPLE, it was said, who were awarded these contracts, will proceed within 10 days of notice. The cost of the new wing is 98 cents per cubit foot, Schrowang said.

The architects fee, which amounts to six per cent of the total amount of $65,000, is $3,667.20. This amount added to the total amount of the contracts of $61,120, plus the $175 for insurance makes a grand balance of $37.80.

It was announced that the school has some desks and chairs for the new rooms, and that the equipment for the home economics room and shop will come partially out of this year's budget, and partially out of next year's budget. The above figures are for the construction of the wing only.

Official Says Physician Admits Killing Family

McAlester, Okla., March 22 (AP)—Pittsburg County Attorney James Whyte announced today Dr. Ben. T. Galbraith, 34, McAlester physician, had confessed he killed his wife and three children last Thursday.

Galbraith began giving details of the slaying soon after he was brought to McAlester from Henderson, Tenn., where he was arrested yesterday.

His wife and three children were found dead in the blazing home Thursday morning. At the time Galbraith said he went to Oklahoma City for a medical meeting and then spent the night at Norman, Okla.

A CHARGE of murder in connection with his wife's death was filed but there was no mention of the children. County Attorney James Whyte said the charge "may be amended later to include them."

The 34-year-old socially prominent physician was arrested at the home of his mother, Mrs. J. E. Galbraith, at Henderson, Tenn., yesterday. He waived extradition and was turned over to Sheriff Dee Sanders of McAlester.

From the time he was arrested until he was placed under guard in a McAlester hospital early today Dr. Galbraith steadfastly maintained his innocence of any crime.

"I COULDN'T do a thing like that," he told officers.

Dr. Galbraith narrowly escaped death about three hours after his arrest when without warning he opened the door and leaped from an automobile into the path of another automobile on Tennessee State Highway 57 about 50 miles east of Memphis.

Sanders was returning him to Memphis to board a train when the incident occurred about 4:30 p. m. yesterday. The car was driven by Howard Cowan, McAlester nawspaperman who accompanied the sheriff to Tennessee to question Galbraith.

B. T. Thornton, Memphis, driver of the other car, swerved to the shoulder and stopped with Galbraith's head resting on the pavement between the wheels. The cars were traveling between 50 and 60 miles an hour.

WHILE WAITING for medical aid at the scene, Galbraith suddenly jumped under the steering wheel and attempted to start the car and drive away but the keys were grabbed in time to stop him.

He said later he intended to crash the machine into a bridge abutment.

"I have nothing left to live for," he said. "I could be with Kitty and the kids."

Dr. Galbraith suffered a severe scalp wound and abrasions on the face, arms and legs. X-rays were being taken today to determine if there were other injuries.

HIS WIFE, Mrs. Mary Katherine Galbraith, 35, and their three children, Frank 7, Jere 5 and Sarah Ann, 4, were found dead in their home after it was heavily damaged by fire Thursday morning.

Dr. Galbraith said he spent the night in a motel in Norman, 110 miles west of McAlester.

The deaths at first were attributed to fire caused by spontaneous combustion and suffocation.

Whyte and Sanders said their case was based on circumstantial evidence but pointed out it was so strong they felt a charge had to be filed.

GROUND TEAMS at the scene include men from the U. S. 25th Infantry Division and the naval ammunition depot.

Washington headquarters of MATS said the plane took off from Hickam Field, Hawaii, bound for Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

The last message from the R6D (navy equivalent of DC6) said the airplane was at 2,000 feet, 15 miles from Barbers Point. MATS said the plane apparently had developed engine trouble and had turned back for Hickam.

VISIBILITY at the time was 5 miles.

Headquarters said the passengers included 20 air force personnel, 16 navy, 19 army and two dependents of military personnel.

Washington officials said since January, 1951, the Pacific division of MATS has carried over one million passengers and crossed the Pacific over 40,000 times without a passenger fatality.

Storms Punish Cleveland Area

Cleveland, March 22 (AP)—Furious storms, including a tornado, punished Ohio today in advance of a cold wave.

One person died and several were injured.

The tornado hit the Boardman-Poland village area in Mahoning county. Northern Ohio bore the brunt of the other storms which raged eastward through the state and left heavy property damage in their wake.

Fallen trees, roofless buildings and several flattened small buildings marked their path.

FIRST REPORTS indicated that the tornado, so classified by the weather bureau at Youngstown Municipal Airport, injured four.

In northern Summit county the storm took the life of 52-year-old Jack Logsdon, manager of the Raymond Firestone estate. Logsdon was riding a horse in an indoor ring when the winds hit the building and tumbled it over on him. A broken neck was believed responsible for his death.

Poland village, an old residential community on the outskirts of Youngstown, was completely without electricity or public communication systems. Police raido was its only contact with the rest of the world.

Colonial, Banks, O'Connor Get School Contracts

Woodstock, March 22 — Contracts for the new addition to the Woodstock School were awarded at a meeting of the board of trustees Monday night at the school. August R. Schrowang, architect for the addition, recommended in a letter to the school board that the following low bidders, being known to him, receive the contracts: general construction—The Colonial Construction Company, 41 Pearl street, Kingston, $45,530; electrical work—Joe E. Official Says Physician Admits Killing Family

McAlester, Okla., March 22 (AP)—Pittsburg County Attorney James Whyte announced today Dr. Ben. T. Galbraith, 34, McAlester physician, had confessed he killed his wife and three children last Thursday.

Galbraith began giving details of the slaying soon after he was brought to McAlester from Henderson, Tenn., where he was arrested yesterday.

His wife and three children were found dead in the blazing home Thursday morning. At the time Galbraith said he went to Oklahoma City for a medical meeting and then spent the night at Norman, Okla.

A CHARGE of murder in connection with his wife's death was filed but there was no mention of the children. County Attorney James Whyte said the charge "may be amended later to include them."

The 34-year-old socially prominent physician was arrested at the home of his mother, Mrs. J. E. Galbraith, at Henderson, Tenn., yesterday. He waived extradition and was turned over to Sheriff Dee Sanders of McAlester.

From the time he was arrested until he was placed under guard in a McAlester hospital early today Dr. Galbraith steadfastly maintained his innocence of any crime.

"I COULDN'T do a thing like that," he told officers.

Dr. Galbraith narrowly escaped death about three hours after his arrest when without warning he opened the door and leaped from an automobile into the path of another automobile on Tennessee State Highway 57 about 50 miles east of Memphis.

Sanders was returning him to Memphis to board a train when the incident occurred about 4:30 p. m. yesterday. The car was driven by Howard Cowan, McAlester nawspaperman who accompanied the sheriff to Tennessee to question Galbraith.

B. T. Thornton, Memphis, driver of the other car, swerved to the shoulder and stopped with Galbraith's head resting on the pavement between the wheels. The cars were traveling between 50 and 60 miles an hour.

WHILE WAITING for medical aid at the scene, Galbraith suddenly jumped under the steering wheel and attempted to start the car and drive away but the keys were grabbed in time to stop him.

He said later he intended to crash the machine into a bridge abutment.

"I have nothing left to live for," he said. "I could be with Kitty and the kids."

Dr. Galbraith suffered a severe scalp wound and abrasions on the face, arms and legs. X-rays were being taken today to determine if there were other injuries.

HIS WIFE, Mrs. Mary Katherine Galbraith, 35, and their three children, Frank 7, Jere 5 and Sarah Ann, 4, were found dead in their home after it was heavily damaged by fire Thursday morning.

Dr. Galbraith said he spent the night in a motel in Norman, 110 miles west of McAlester.

The deaths at first were attributed to fire caused by spontaneous combustion and suffocation.

Whyte and Sanders said their case was based on circumstantial evidence but pointed out it was so strong they felt a charge had to be filed.

Washington headquarters of MATS said the plane took off from Hickam Field, Hawaii, bound for Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

The last message from the R6D (navy equivalent of DC6) said the airplane was at 2,000 feet, 15 miles from Barbers Point. MATS said the plane apparently had developed engine trouble and had turned back for Hickam.

VISIBILITY at the time was 5 miles.

Headquarters said the passengers included 20 air force personnel, 16 navy, 19 army and two dependents of military personnel.

Washington officials said since January, 1951, the Pacific division of MATS has carried over one million passengers and crossed the Pacific over 40,000 times without a passenger fatality.
